FATAL SCENE—Circleville native Patrolman Jerry Neff was driving the Ohio State Patrol car in the upper photo when a car soared over the guardrail of an overpass landing on the top of the car. The lower photo is of the car driven by a young man tentatively identified as David Richardson, 19. The auto had Kentucky license plates.

Ohio State Patrolman Jerry Neff, 28, 335 Meadow Drive, was killed as a result of a freak accident at the intersection of Route 62 and Interstate 71 9:15 a.m. today.

Patrolman Neff was apparently southbound on Route 62 when a car driven by David Richardson, 19, jumped the guardrail on the 71 overpass and landed on the patrol car.

Critically injured, Patrolman Neff died shortly after being admitted to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus. Richardson is reported in "serious" condition at the hospital.

Neff is a native of Circleville and a graduate of Circleville High School. He attended barber college and was a barber here before joining the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Married to the former Brenda Downing, he is survived by three children. He is also survived by his father, Harold, sisters and brothers.

Patrolman Neff was assigned to Circleville Post 65 upon completion of his training at the OSP Academy. The accident is still under investigation by the local post.

State Pollution Deadline Extended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's fuel-burning industries have been given two more years to comply with sulfur oxide emission standards, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency announced Tuesday.

State EPA Director Ira Whitman announced the extension from July 1, 1975, to July 1, 1977, saying "there was no realistic way to expect" the industries to convert to low-sulphur fuel by next July.

Whitman said the extension also will allow industries in the process of installing air cleaning equipment to find equipment and complete the installation process.

In addition, Whitman announced several changes in regulations governing sulphur oxide emissions. The changes affect only fuel-burning industries and not electric power companies, which have requested an EPA hearing on their antipollution requirements.

All of the changes require federal approval, Whitman said.

The energy crisis precipitated the two-year extension, Whitman said.

"Originally, Ohio's compliance plan was based on the assumption that there would be enough low-sulphur fuel available. It hit everybody all of a sudden that this fuel was not available, and probably never will be," Whitman said.

Industries were given the choice several years ago of converting to clean fuel or installing "scrubbing" equipment on their smoke stacks in order to meet certain emission levels, Whitman said.

Some of the industries which converted to oil have since switched back to coal because of the energy crisis, Whitman said. Factories which chose to install scrubbing equipment are faced with high costs and a lack of technology in the area, he added.

"So what we've allowed them to do is have two more years to find and install equipment," Whitman said.

Included in the new sulphur oxide emission regulations, to go into effect Feb. 1, is relaxation of emissions from existing sulphur recovery plants. The rules will allow emissions of up to one-tenth of a pound per pound of sulphur, up from one one-hundredth of a pound limit.

New plants still must meet the lower level, the EPA said.

Also under the new rules, factories may now calculate sulphur oxide emission levels on an average, rather than a point-by-point basis.

Left unchanged, Whitman said, were standards guaranteeing healthy air in high industry areas.

Also left intact despite steel industry pressure, he said, were regulations governing emissions from coke ovens.

Agnews Seeking Maryland Home

CROFTON, Md. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is reported to be househunting in and around Anne Arundel County in his home state of Maryland.

"They want to stay here," a representative of Charles H. Steffey, Inc. said Monday. He said the Agnews have been trying to keep their shopping quiet.

State Of Union Talk Readied By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon addresses Congress and the nation tonight on the State of the Union, and quite possibly on the watergate crisis.

White House officials would not say flatly in advance of Nixon's 9 p.m. EDT appearance at a joint session of Congress whether Watergate-related matters would be touched upon.

However, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday Nixon would discuss all issues important to the American people. And departing aide Melvin R. Laird, asked at a news conference whether Nixon could fail to talk about what the questioner termed a crisis of confidence, replied:

"I think you'll be very pleased with the content of the message."

The White House said Nixon returned to Washington by car after dark Tuesday from a five-day stay at Camp David, Md., where he reportedly spent much of his time on the State of the Union address to be broadcast live by major television-radio networks.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said Tuesday in an interview filmed for use by public television stations that he thought Nixon could help himself by "dealing with the state of the President."

Nixon was sending Congress a lengthy, written State of the Union message in addition to his speech to Senate and House members.

Most of the President's legislative proposals represent altered versions of ones advanced in earlier years.

Perhaps his major 1974 legislative initiative is a much-revised national health insurance plan.

To be financed largely through employer-employee contributions, it would insure all Americans of basic minimum coverage as well as protection against catastrophic illnesses. It also would absorb the present Medicaid program.

Also expected was a proposal for some form of guaranteed annual income. Nixon's Budget Director Roy Ash said three weeks ago that it could tie welfare into the tax system to provide a guaranteed income for those earning below a certain level.

Nixon also planned to unveil a new transportation program that would leave interstate highway funds untouched but permit use of other federal road building aid for either highways or mass transit.

And the President will be asking anew for a rural development program, pension reform, creation of a Department of Energy and Natural Resources, and a general expansion of his revenue sharing concept.

The three commercial television-radio networks have promised Democrats an hour of free air time at 10 p. m. EDT Friday to respond to Nixon's address. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana will speak for about 15 minutes, then field questions from a panel of newsmen.

Energy Bill Appears Dead Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Controversy over oil industry profits appears to have killed the emergency energy bill that Congress wrestled with for two months.

The Senate voted Tuesday to send the measure back to conference with the House in an effort to remove an excess profits provision that critics claimed was unworkable and probably unconstitutional.

The move to recommit had received the endorsement of President Nixon, who wrote Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott that it "would be most unfortunate" if Congress approved the energy bill in its present form.

But both House and Senate leaders of the conference indicated there was little chance the conferees would reconsider the bill. The White House has said it needs the legislation before it can order gasoline rationing and other mandatory energy conservation measures.

"It's all in a shambles now," Senate Interior Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said. House Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., agreed that the Senate vote probably would kill the bill.

"The administration is going to rue this day," Jackson said, explaining that without the bill the President would have to declare a national emergency before he could order rationing.

A source in the Federal Energy Office said gasoline rationing is a strong likelihood this summer if the Arab oil embargo continues.

Jackson also argued that the Senate's refusal to approve the excess profits measure in the bill would make the oil industry "more difficult, more belligerent. The industry must be glowing," Jackson said after the vote.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., sponsor of the motion to recommit, argued that most of the bill's non-controversial provisions, including rationing, could be attached to other measures.

The bill was recommended by a vote of 57-37, with Republicans and oil state senators who prevented passage of the measure before Christmas being joined by Nelson and other liberal Democrats, including George McGovern, D-S.D., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

In other developments:

—Three oil companies announced substantial earnings increases for 1973. Phillips Petroleum Co. said earnings in the fourth quarter of 1973 more than doubled those of the same period in 1972. Sun Oil Co. announced a 59 per cent increase in earnings during the fourth quarter. And Marathon Oil Co. said its operating income for 1973 increased 62 per cent.

—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee is opening hearings on the foreign policy influence of multinational oil companies.

—Federal energy chief William E. Simon warned the American people that "scarce high cost energy will be the rule for many years if not indefinitely." He called for "a new energy ethic — a war on waste."

—The American Automobile Association said gasoline appears to be about as available this week as it was last week. What end-of-month shortages there are seem to be hitting metropolitan centers hardest, the AAA said.

Cold Winds Push Snow Into Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold winds pushed snow into the north-central states today, and temperatures plummeted.

Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour swept northern Montana as the mercury fell from 37 to 1 at Havre within three hours. Snow fell from the western part of the state through much of North Dakota.

Warm southwesterly winds with gusts to over 60 m.p.h. buffeted southwestern Montana at Livingston, and high-wind warnings were issued for parts of Wyoming.

Some rain and drizzle dotted the northern Pacific coast, and rain and snow hit northern Michigan.

A band of showers and thunderstorms dampened areas from the eastern Gulf Coast to the Carolinas. Dense fog reduced visibility in the southern Appalachians to near zero.

Most of the nation elsewhere enjoyed fair skies and unseasonably warm temperatures.

Blood Test Said Legal

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—A Licking County Common Pleas Court ruling that a blood test could not be admitted as evidence in a vehicular homicide trial was reversed Tuesday by the 5th District Court of Appeals.

The appellate court ruled in the case of George M. Huffman of Newark, charged in the death of Clair Ruback, also of Newark, last July.

Huffman was accused of driving the wrong way on the Newark Expressway, resulting in a head-on collision with the Ruback vehicle.

During the trial, the court upheld a defense motion that the blood test made on Huffman following the accident could not be admitted as evidence because it was not given by a licensed doctor or nurse.

The appeals court ruling stated a test for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of blood does not have to be administered by a doctor, if it is supervised by a doctor and under his direct responsibility.

Huffman's trial had been delayed pending the ruling.

Weather

Mostly sunny today with high in mid 50s. Fair tonight with low in mid 30s. Partly cloudy and turning cooler Thursday. High near 50. Probability of precipitation, zero per cent today, 10 per cent tonight and 20 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Tuesday were: high, 43; low, 33.

Nixon Faces Subpoena

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A subpoena ordering President Nixon to testify personally in the Ellsberg burglary case is awaiting the signature of a California state judge following his ruling that the President is a material witness.

The unprecedented subpoena was drafted and delivered to Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer late Tuesday by attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman who requested Nixon's appearance.

The Ehrlichman defense team said that Nixon's attorney earlier declined their request to have the President testify voluntarily. Ehrlichman was Nixon's top domestic adviser until he resigned in the wake of the Watergate cover-up.

Ringer, who said this would be the first time a President has been subpoenaed by a state court, said he will sign the subpoena by Friday. The subpoena commands Nixon to appear at a pretrial hearing Feb. 25, and at the trial April 15.

The judge ruled earlier Tuesday that Nixon is a material witness to the defense case of Ehrlichman and two other former White House employees, G. Gordon Liddy and David R. Young Jr. All three are charged with burglary and conspiracy. Ehrlichman is also charged with perjury.

The White House formally declined comment on the ruling until it receives the judge's order, but sources later indicated the President would decline to appear personally as a witness.

Ehrlichman attorney Douglas Dalton immediately prepared the three-page subpoena. But Dalton said Ringer decided to study the subpoena's legal phraseology before signing.

Ehrlichman, joined in his motion by Liddy and Young, wants the President to testify about the formation of the secret White House investigations unit known as the "plumbers" and about presidential orders concerning a probe of Pentagon papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

More Violence In Truck Halt

Three more shootings were reported in the Youngstown area as Ohio truckers braced for a new wave of protests by independent owner-operators who are seeking relief from soaring prices.

The State Highway Patrol said windshields were shot out of three trucks on I-80 near Youngstown line Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, one Youngstown trucker, refusing to be identified, said he expects some "headhunting" tonight at midnight when the nationwide shutdown is planned.

The Youngstown driver warned that there may be "a lot of violence" connected with the planned nationwide shutdown by owner-operators.

He said he parked his own rig in Chicago a week ago, when the current wave of protests started, and just drove home to Youngstown.

A bridge over the Ohio River between East Liverpool and Newell, W.Va. was shut down Tuesday night because of a bomb threat.

Hancock, W.Va., authorities shut the Newell Bridge down at 9:25 p.m. after an anonymous caller announced that 18 sticks of dynamite had been planted on the bridge.

Police Launch Big Manhunt For San Francisco Killers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police pressed a massive manhunt called "Operation Zebra" through a tense and quiet city, looking for at least two gunmen believed responsible for 10 random slayings in the past two months.

The latest wave of killings came Monday night, when five persons were shot in a two-hour period on city streets. All but one died and doctors say the lone survivor may be paralyzed.

"Sure, people are afraid," Police Lt. William O'Connor said Tuesday. "If the murders had a motive — rape or robbery — it wouldn't be so frightening. This is terrible. There's a lot of hate involved in these cowardly acts of going up to an isolated person and shooting him."

Police said they had no suspects and only slim leads. They said they were working on descriptions supplied by witnesses which indicate that at least two young black men who alternated roles of gunman and driver were involved.

In each slaying, now and last December, the victim was white and was walking along a street.

The only survivor of Monday night's shootings was Roxanne McMillan, 23. She was reported in stable but critical condition after surgery to repair damage caused by a bullet lodged behind her heart and another which went through her liver and lung.

"It's possible that she might be paralyzed," said Dr. F.W. Blaisdell, chief of surgery at San Francisco General Hospital.

Mrs. McMillan was shot as she helped her husband move into a new home. Shades were drawn in the neighborhood Tuesday and some children were kept home from school.

Chief of Inspectors Charles Barca said the slayings were "similar to a spurt of shootings last month in which six persons were killed and two were wounded."

He said "the largest manhunt in the city's history" had been launched to search for the killers. The hunt was dubbed "Operation Zebra" because the code letter "Z," which will be used in police radio broadcasts on the case, is the least busy frequency.

The owner of the Penn-Ohio truck stop, Joe Daltorio, said he was closing because he was out of diesel fuel and had only 6,000 gallons of "regular" gasoline left.

Daltorio said also that with the truckers' protest cutting down on traffic he is doing only 20 per cent of his normal business and is going to have to lay off several workers.

Daltorio says his truck stop normally has 300 to 400 rigs at a time.

Some oil companies say the threats of violence have cut down fuel oil deliveries to eastern Ohio.

A Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) spokesman said deliveries to some points in the area have been "irregular" because of possible violence. He said Sohio has made no deliveries into the East Liverpool area since Friday.

L.G. Johnson, Sohio's Youngstown region manager, said deliveries from the company's Niles terminal are down 75 per cent, and no runs are being made at night.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained higher today but seemed to be losing some of its sharp early gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 6.61 at 858.93, while advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 2 to 1. Earlier, the Dow was up over nine points.

"The market is reacting to a few hopeful developments," said Robert Stovall, analyst with Reynolds Securities, Inc.

He cited rumors of a possible easing of the oil embargo by the Saudi Arabians and hope of some positive news from President Nixon when he delivers his State of the Union address tonight.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was up .33 to 97.16, while the NYSE composite index was up .41 to 51.74.

Other Big Board prices included American Standard, up 1/4 to 12 1/2; after a 485,800-share block traded at 12 1/2; up 1/8; Bausch & Lomb, up 2 1/2 to 44 1/2; American Motors, down 3/8 to 12 1/4; Chrysler, up 1/8 to 16 1/2; and Bethlehem Steel, which reported higher earnings, down 1/2 to 34 1/4.

Interstate Stores, which reached an agreement in principle with McCrory Corp. and Rapid-American Corp. to buy several hundred stores, was down 5/8 to 2 1/2.

Plan Announced On Truck Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government today announced a three-step plan designed to alleviate fuel problems in the trucking industry and to head off any possible widening of the current protest by Midwestern truck operators.

W. J. Usery Jr., a special presidential assistant, said the plan will allow truck operators to pass through to trucking companies any difference they must pay in the cost of diesel fuel from what they paid on May 15, 1973.

The plan also provides for a mandatory allocation program that will guarantee delivery of the fuel needed by the trucking industry, Usery said.

The mandatory allotment will be 110 per cent of 1972 consumption.

The third part of the proposal will be a tripling in the number of price monitors who will check truck stops and fuel outlets for price gouging.

The proposal for pass-through of fuel costs apparently will mean higher prices for American consumers. Usery had no estimate as to how much of an increase could be expected.

He said trucking firms could make up their additional expense because of the passthrough by asking the Interstate Commerce Commission for new rate increases.

Many of the truckers, acting through their regional rate bureaus, already have asked the ICC for some relief, Usery said.

The presidential assistant expressed hope the measures would satisfy truckers who have been upset over the rising cost of fuel and the problems in getting a full tank from a truck stop.

"I believe this should avert a shutdown," he said. "We certainly urge the truckers to keep operating."

The passthrough provision will not be effective for at least 30 days, Usery said. However, he said he hoped trucking firms would start immediately to absorb the cost as provided for under the proposed rule.

Steel Industry Talks Open; No National Strike Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Steelworkers of America opens crucial contract talks with the steel industry today without its traditional weapon — the right to a national strike.

Union and industry officials intent on settling the issues peacefully signed an unprecedented no-strike agreement a year ago.

Today they put it to work when USW President I.W. Abel sits down at the bargaining table with R. Heath Larry, vice chairman of U.S. Steel Corp. and the industry's chief negotiator, to hammer out a new 3-year contract.

The negotiations cover some 380,000 workers employed by the nation's 10 biggest steel producers and will set the pattern for the rest of the industry.

Steel companies posted sharply higher profits last year and Abel is determined to win substantial wage and benefit increases to make up for "the sharp rise in the cost of living which was not fully compensated for" in the current contract.

No dollars-and-cents figure was put on the union's demands, but Abel is unlikely to settle for less than the 7 per cent-a-year gains recently negotiated by the United Auto Workers.

The "Experimental Negotiating Agreement" signed by the USW with the steel industry last March bars a nationwide strike in return for a guaranteed minimum 3 per cent-a-year wage increase for three years plus a one-time $150 bonus. All unresolved issues in the negotiations are to go to binding arbitration by April 15.

Current steel contracts expire Aug. 1, and after that union locals are free to strike individual plants over local issues.

Abel drew some criticism for relinquishing the union's right to call a national strike but has expressed confidence nonetheless of winning a good agreement. He regards the 3 per cent wage hike as only an opener.

The last nationwide steel strike was in 1959 and lasted 116 days. But the mere threat of a strike at contract time every three years created a boom-bust cycle for the industry with customers stockpiling steel. Following settlements, customers held off on new orders, forcing mills to shut down and lay off workers.

The no-strike agreement is intended to prevent this stockpiling and the subsequent layoffs.

Steelworkers currently average $5.29 an hour, plus 39 cents an hour in cost-of-living benefits.

Coal Said Big Source Of Energy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coal must be used as never before for the nation to overcome the energy crisis, the president of Battelle Memorial Institute said Tuesday.

Sherwood Fawcett said the energy crisis can be overcome, but that it will take national determination such as that mustered during World War II.

He said Battelle has committed $25 million for energy research, much of it directed toward increased use of coal.

Specific Battelle projects include improving the technology for mining coal and experiments aimed at producing methanol and other chemicals from coal, he said.

Frank Dawson Jr., energy program director, said one of the major reasons for selection of coal for Battelle's research is that not only can coal make an impact on the energy problem in the next 20 years, but there are over three trillion tons of coal within the borders of the United States.

"This is enough to last for hundreds of years—even at rates of consumption exceeding the current rate—if we can successfully mine, convert and utilize coal in acceptable ways," he said.

Viet Nam Veterans Are Asked To Check DD 214

All Pickaway County Veterans eligible for the Viet Nam Bonus are urged by Pickaway County Veterans Service officer, Jim Shea, to check their DD 214, Report of Separation, carefully, to determine if it shows the dates served in Viet Nam, or if it shows the dates combat pay was received in Southeast Asia.

"All veterans, who were residents of the State of Ohio for one year prior to their entry into the service", Shea said, "are entitled to a bonus payment of $10 per month for each month of domestic service between August 5, 1964 and July 1, 1973, and for a payment of $20 per month for each month served in Viet Nam and for each month he drew combat pay in any part of Southeast Asia between February 28, 1961 and July 1, 1973, with a payment of $15 per month for each month served in any foreign country between the August 5, 1964 and July 1, 1973 dates."

"Our problem lies," the Service Officer said, "in the fact that all DD 214's do not show the number of months in Viet Nam, or the number of months that the veteran may have drawn combat pay in Southeast Asia."

To solve the problem, the local Service Officer would like each veteran to carefully check his DD 214, and if the desired information does not show, he should contact the Service Officer, in order that action may be taken to secure the needed information prior to the time the bonus applications are made available.

"We have form letters in the office" the service officer said, "and we will send them to the proper service department, over the veterans signature, asking for the desired information. We feel certain the veteran will get this information before the bonus applications are available. It will save a lot of time for the veteran, and get his bonus money for him a lot faster."

The Service Officer is located in the basement of the Court House. His phone number is 474-3650.

OSU Fullback To Speak At Scout Meeting

Harold (Champ) Henson, Ohio State University football star, will be guest speaker at a father-son Scout Meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the 4-H and Grange Building, Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

This is to be the highlight of Boy Scout week in the county. Other guests will include Father Schilder, Ohio Correctional Institute, Chillicothe; Edward Jacobs, chief scout executive, Central Ohio Council, Columbus.

All Pickaway Scouts and their fathers are invited to attend this meeting. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Demand Data On Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is demanding reams of secret information on Justice Department eavesdropping practices for the past six years.

The Senate permanent investigations subcommittee is seeking details far more extensive than the department has ever made public about the wiretapping and bugging operations of the FBI.

The request has set off departmental debate over what information should be disclosed, what should be withheld and what should be provided only on the condition that the committee keep it secret.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., sent an 11-page questionnaire Jan. 8 to scores of government agencies with investigative functions. But the Justice Department is one of the chief targets.

Jackson said at the time "we must start by identifying, isolating and eliminating all unwarranted surveillance activities by the government itself. The civil liberties of all our citizens are at stake."

The committee and the department have not disclosed the content of the questionnaire, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The 11-page document asks for the names of all targets of wiretapping, bugging or other eavesdropping from Jan. 1, 1968, to the present. It asks for the dates of all attempted and actual eavesdropping and for the names, addresses and vocations of all persons whose conversations were overheard.

The subcommittee demands "the precise legal authority warranting such activity" in each case and also asks if the eavesdropping was conducted for criminal law enforcement, national security or other specific purposes.

The questionnaire asks who authorized each eavesdropping incident and what legal authority he had.

A Page Of Opinion

Subsidizing Soviet Technology

Philosophical conservatives and liberals in Congress seldom find many issues on which they agree. One on which they are rapidly coming to a consensus is the long-time financing at low interest rates of trade and industrial assistance offered to the Soviet Union.

Some of the most outspoken members of Congress at both ends of the political spectrum have denounced what amounts to United States subsidies to Soviet technological improvement. At issue currently is expected approval by the U.S. Export-Import Bank of $49.5 million in loans to Russia at 5 per cent interest to finance exploration and development of natural gas fields in Siberia.

Under deals being studied, the U.S. would stand to gain added natural gas imports many years in the future if the gas fields are developed. But in the meantime U.S. funds invested in the project could expand to as much as $2 billion of the projected $10 billion cost, much of it under long-term, low-interest credits.

Two points are made by the critics. At a time when interest rates are exceptionally high in the U.S., should Washington be offering terms better than those American citizens enjoy for development of Soviet resources? Opponents think not.

And, what assurances are there that the Soviets would honor any agreements on natural gas exports to the U.S. once production is flowing?

Maxfield For President

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — It's short notice, but if the GOP or the Democrats are looking around for their next Presidential nominees they could do worse than give Morgan Maxfield a frisk.

Morgan Maxfield? Yes, none other. So far as national politics is concerned, he's as obscure as Wendell Willkie was a year before the Republicans bypassed such party heavyweights as Sen. Robert Taft and Gov. Tom Dewey and selected "The Barefoot Boy from Wall Street" as the man most capable of stopping FDR's bid for a third term. Indeed, Maxfield is even less known than Spiro Agnew was two minutes before GOP Presidential nominee Richard Nixon chose him as his 1968 running mate. Agnew pledged he'd make his name a household word, and kept his promise.

Maxfield's last public appearances were hardly political. He sang country songs and a little rock and pop on a USO hospital tour during the past holidays — a tour of Veterans Administration hospitals in Memphis, Jacksonville, Miami, Houston, Albuquerque, Tucson, Sepulveda, Oak Knoll and Martinez, in California. There was also a booking at Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba. (In order to land his plane there, Maxfield had to increase his flight insurance.)

So? Well, to start with, Maxfield — like a fellow USO man, Bob Hope — is a multimillionaire, at less than half of Hope's age. He sings almost as well, having taken some lessons from his friend Elvis Presley. His tour didn't cost hard-pressed USO a quarter. Maxfield transported the troupe in his own plane.

(He once chartered a TWA 747 and flew and bused 343 persons from Kansas City to Cape Kennedy for an Apollo shot. Among the happy passengers were the governors of Missouri and Nebraska, U. S. Senator Jack Miller and a sprinkling of mayors and fellow Kansas City tycoons. The film shown en route was produced by Maxfield: greetings from Missouri's Gov. Hearnes, Wernher von Braun, and Ron Ziegler. The Air Force rejected the first overture to permit the 747 to land at McCoy AFB, Orlando, then not only capitulated but sold Maxfield fuel for the return flight. The party moved from McCoy to Kennedy in nine buses, each equipped with a NASA expert. The endless traffic jam was averted by using a lane on the wrong side of the road, with police cars clearing a path. And in the VIP section at Kennedy, they all saw Cary Grant. (In person.)

Ten years ago, Maxfield was a 22-year-old parking lot attendant in Dallas. Three years later, his success as a real estate developer had made him a millionaire, hailed by John B. Connally as "One of the truly able young men I know." At 32, and now a big wheel in Kansas City, the variety of his past and present day achievements makes an Horatio Alger saga resemble a misspent youth. Here are a few of the bases Maxfield has touched:

He was a track star at Highland Park (Dallas) High School and later competed against a Mexican Olympic Team in Mexico City. He won degrees in chemistry and physics at Wheaton College, Ill., and was graduated as president of his class from Harvard's School of Business.

Five years ago, searching about for more comfortable contact lenses for his eyes, he formed Morgan Optics, Inc., and it came up with the vastly improved Aqua Lens. His was the second largest lens manufacturing company in the U.S. when he sold out to Will Ross, Inc., for millions.

His Great Midwest Corporation — mining, heavy construction, warehousing — was formed with the help of the Burlington Railroad and Texas oilionaire-sportsman Lamar Hunt. At last look, its net worth was $10,400,000. His land dealings around his adopted home town have brought $30,000,000 of new business into what had been a stagnant town, with the promise of a $3,200,000,000 (billions) construction activity on the way.

Federal Pay Increase Plan Would Shatter Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay raises of 7 per cent that exceed Cost of Living Council guidelines are in store for high-level public servants under President Nixon's fiscal 1975 budget proposal.

Once formally proposed, the pay raises for congressmen, Cabinet members and top-level federal administrators are likely to begin in March, with additional increments in 1975 and 1976. The only action that could stop Nixon's intent is a negative vote by Congress within 30 days after the proposal reaches Capitol Hill.

Nixon's budget proposal is scheduled to be sent to Congress Monday.

The salary increases would be the first of their kind since 1969.

Under the proposal Cabinet officers would have their pay raised about $4,000 this year, with additional raises in the next two years. They now earn $60,000.

Congressmen would receive a raise of $3,500 in early March, bringing them close to $46,000 annually. There would be additional raises in 1975 and 1976 unless Congress rejects the plan.

And similar increases would be

Maxfield is a pilot and is given credit for saving and resuscitating the Kansas City Philharmonic. Naturally, he made the Jayvees Big Ten, and was the youngest colonel in the Civil Air Patrol, and the youngest official delegate to the International Science Congress in Moscow. Maxfield also makes lots of inspirational talks to youth groups on the theme that America is still the land of great opportunity.

Then why knock himself out singing with a USO troupe? Well, he likes to sing. And he is aware that USO needs a helping hand. We've still got a couple of million men and women in uniform spread around the world, and at bases and hospitals here at home. Allocation Help Provided By PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said Tuesday it can work out arrangements between consumers and fuel suppliers who refuse to furnish certain kinds of products.

The commission said new federal fuel regulations give the agency the power to help users get supplies or adjustments in allocations of propane, gasoline, middle distillates and residual fuels.

Daylight Time Bill Cosponsored By Taft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saying "nominal conservation of fuel" does not justify the deaths of school children hit by cars in predawn darkness, Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, Tuesday cosponsored a bill to repeal the Daylight Saving Time measure that became effective earlier this month.

Taft also offered a bill to amend the DST law to permit Ohio and other states to file for exemptions. He said the Senate would have an option in his bill if efforts to repeal the DST measure fail.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I plan to be married within the next year. I am an idiopathic epileptic, but I am under complete control with the drug dilantin.

I know that this disease has a tendency to run in families. Should I tell my fiancée about the epilepsy? I am afraid that he might call off our marriage plans.

Miss X., Conn.

Dear Miss X.:

The word "idiopathic" sounds ominous, but all it really means is that the exact origin of a disease is not known.

You are one of the many favored people with epilepsy whose convulsions are controlled by drugs. They function normally and productively and carry on happy and successful lives. The key to their personal happiness undoubtedly lies in the fact that they live without embarrassment or stigma and do not surround themselves by pretense or lies.

Nothing would be more destructive to your marriage than the revelation that you had failed to be forthright and honest with your fiancée. On the other hand, the complete truth may even solidify your relationship and embark you both on a relationship of better understanding.

Certainly the fact that there are hereditary implications to epilepsy demand genetic counseling by those who are equipped to trace the family background and predict the possibility of passing on epilepsy to your children.

Many potentially good marriages have been unnecessarily ruined because some family history of hereditary disease was closeted and not brought out into the open before, rather than after, the marriage.

My son was born with a horseshoe kidney. He is now seven years old and is in perfect health, but still we worry about him.

Mrs. T. E., Mo.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Many people, despite reassurance about a medical problem, live with a sense of concern.

It is imperative that you obtain a "booster shot" of reassurance so that you discontinue your unnecessary anxiety about your sons' condition.

A horseshoe kidney, where the two kidneys join in horseshoe shape is a congenital variation that occurs about once in 500 persons. In the absence of any infection those who have this unusually shaped kidney are as healthy and live as long as those with two kidneys.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a flagpole sitter gets tired of hearing:

"It's a message from your wife. She says to put up your umbrella — it's raining."

"How did you train yourself for this kind of a career, sir? Did you work for the government?"

"Do the pigeons give you much trouble up there, Wilfred?"

"How much suntan lotion would you say you use in a year? Enough to cover Coney Island?"

"No, that isn't a crowd of Wilfred's fans waiting around the bottom of the building for him to come down. They are just a few of his bill collectors."

"Your wife says that since you are on a diet and not getting much exercise up there, she's only sending you up a piece of lettuce and a pat of pot cheese for lunch."

"I'm afraid you were born a generation too late for this line of work, Wilfred. People today are too lazy to bend their neck to look at a guy on a flagpole and besides everybody thinks he himself is stuck out on a private flagpole of his own anyway."

"Your wife says to tell you she can't come and wave you on today, Wilfred. She's playing bridge with some friends."

"Bad news, Wilfred. We hear the World Trade Center is up to some dirty pool. We've been told they're planning to send a pretty young blonde twin up on each of the flagpoles on their two towers — one dressed topless, the other bottomless. Can you think of a quick gimmick to beat that, Wilfred?"

"You must have your dates mixed, Wilfred. According to our figures, you still have a week, six days, four hours and 29 minutes to go before setting a record. Just don't think about it — and the time will go faster."

"Your wife says she is planning your summer vacation and wants to know if you'd like to go mountain climbing for a change."

"It's from your wife, Wilfred. She says the messages you've been sending are so full of complaints she suggests that the first thing you do when you climb down from that flagpole is to go and climb a tree."

Brucellosis Fight Opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has scheduled a series of meetings and workshops beginning next month to map plans for new efforts to eradicate brucellosis in cattle.

Officials said the conferences, set in six regional locations, will include an opening-day review of disease-eradication efforts for livestock producers, market operators, meat packers, state and federal animal health officials and others.

The remainder of the conferences will be workshop sessions for state and federal regulatory workers, the department said.

The schedule includes: Feb. 4-8, Chicago, Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, Schiller Park; Feb. 11-15, Denver, Continental Denver Hotel; Feb. 25-March 1, Memphis. Admiral Benbow Inn, airport; March 18-22, Dallas, Baker Hotel; and April 1-5, Reno, Nev., Eldorado Hotel.

A meeting also will be held in Albany, N.Y., but the dates and location have not been determined, officials said.

They'll Do It Every Time

A Page Of Opinion

Subsidizing Soviet Technology

Philosophical conservatives and liberals in Congress seldom find many issues on which they agree. One on which they are rapidly coming to a consensus is the long-time financing at low interest rates of trade and industrial assistance offered to the Soviet Union.

Some of the most outspoken members of Congress at both ends of the political spectrum have denounced what amounts to United States subsidies to Soviet technological improvement. At issue currently is expected approval by the U.S. Export-Import Bank of $49.5 million in loans to Russia at 5 per cent interest to finance exploration and development of natural gas fields in Siberia.

Under deals being studied, the U.S. would stand to gain added natural gas imports many years in the future if the gas fields are developed. But in the meantime U.S. funds invested in the project could expand to as much as $2 billion of the projected $10 billion cost, much of it under long-term, low-interest credits.

Two points are made by the critics. At a time when interest rates are exceptionally high in the U.S., should Washington be offering terms better than those American citizens enjoy for development of Soviet resources? Opponents think not.

And, what assurances are there that the Soviets would honor any agreements on natural gas exports to the U.S. once production is flowing?

Maxfield For President

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — It's short notice, but if the GOP or the Democrats are looking around for their next Presidential nominees they could do worse than give Morgan Maxfield a frisk.

Morgan Maxfield?

Yes, none other. So far as national politics is concerned, he's as obscure as Wendell Willkie was a year before the Republicans bypassed that party heavyweights as Sen. Robert Taft and Gov. Tom Dewey and selected "The Barefoot Boy from Wall Street" as the man most capable of stopping FDR's bid for a third term. Indeed, Maxfield is even less known than Spiro Agnew was two minutes before GOP Presidential nominee Richard Nixon chose him as his 1968 running mate. Agnew pledged he'd make his name a household word, and kept his promise.

Maxfield's last public appearances were hardly political. He sang country songs and a little rock and pop on a USO hospital tour during the past holidays — a tour of Veterans Administration hospitals in Memphis, Jacksonville, Miami, Houston, Albuquerque, Tucson, Sepulveda, Oak Knoll and Martinez, in California. There was also a booking at Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba. (In order to land his plane there, Maxfield had to increase his flight insurance.)

Firm Burns Excess Propane

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Sun Oil Co.'s refinery here burned 2,000 barrels of propane last weekend in its refining process because they had no place to store it and couldn't sell it.

Refinery Manager John McKinney claimed using the fuel in place of natural gas was not an effort to contrive a shortage of propane, but resulted from scheduling problems with the company pipeline that carries the propane to Inkster, Mich., for storage. Walter Kilpatrick, the refinery supervisor of oil transfer, said the propane arrived late by pipeline from southern Ohio and there was not time to pump it on to the storage area.

Other products such as gasoline and fuel oil also use the pipeline to Inkster, and each product is scheduled movement times, the company said.

Kilpatrick said the propane must be stored in pressure vessels and the refinery has no place to store more than three days production. He said the company called propane customers and asked them to pick up the fuel, but not all of it was taken.

Kilpatrick said the refinery was "not happy about having to burn the fuel since it sells for about 23 cents a gallon while natural gas costs us around 10 cents a gallon."

By MRS. FRANCIS FURNISS

Mrs. Alfred Finch, Mrs. Joe Armentrout, Mrs. Herman Porter, Miss Laura Long, members of the Monrovia Garden Club and their guest Mrs. Loring Albright, conducted a therapy class at White Cottage at the Orient State School on Jan. 22.

There were 28 attending the class and they made tulips out of felt material and decorated them with sequins. They all enjoyed working and making flowers and at the close of the class a nice social time was enjoyed with refreshments of cookies and punch.

The next therapy program will take place on March 4, with Mrs. Ruth O'Day and Miss Laura Long as chairmen and will feature plating flower and vegetable seeds in small pots for window display.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss were Tuesday afternoon guests of Mrs. Bessie Hinton and Mrs. Carl Cathel Sr. in Darbyville.

Harry and Chester Fretwell of Commercial Point were Thursday evening guests of their sister, Mrs. Carrie McCann.

Mrs. Nellie Alkire has been a patient in Fayette Memorial Hospital this past week. She still carries a temperature and will be there for a few days yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and Miss Laura Long were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Donohoe of near Washington C.H.

Students Invited To Contribute To Magazine

This is the sixth consecutive year that the Conservation in Action section and full-color cover illustration of "Ohio Woodlands", Conservation in Action magazine, will be representative of the work of students and their environmental studies throughout Ohio.

Elementary and high school students are invited to participate, and those schools that would like further information should contact the Ohio Forestry Association, The Neil House, Columbus, Ohio, publisher of the magazine. March 15, 1974 has been set as the deadline for receipt of materials.

Through this special edition, Ohio Forestry Association gives students throughout the state the opportunity to have their work published in a statewide conservation magazine

Impeachment Predicted

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—President Nixon will be impeached by the House of Representatives, Pulitzer-prize winning author Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. predicted Tuesday.

"But what the Senate will do, acquittal or removal, I don't know," the professor told a news conference at Cleveland State University.

Schlesinger said the Republican leadership probably will try to persuade Nixon to resign, but Nixon will refuse.

No matter what Congress does, the American people will accept it, he added.

Schlesinger, an advisor to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, teaches humanities at the City University of New York. He won Pulitzer prizes in 1946 for his "Age of Jackson" and in 1966 for "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House."

which is sent to all Ohio school and public libraries. Classes and students who participate will become more aware of their environment and their responsibility toward the wise use of our resources.

According to T. M. Higgins, Executive Director of Ohio Forestry Association, the magazine has long been a valuable resource for both teachers and students. The subscription fee to place a copy in every school library in the state is paid by local businesses and organizations in cooperation with the Ohio Forestry Association.

Schools in Pickaway County are sponsored by The Dunlap Company, Williamsport.

Golden Wedding Celebrated By Scioto Grange

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kuhlwein, Route 1, Lockbourne were honored by Scioto Valley Grange on Tuesday evening in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary which is Jan. 31st.

The evening's activities at the Grange hall began with a carry-in dinner attended by 60 friends. The center table was decorated with a cake topped with a bride and groom, floral arrangements and candles. Flowers and candles graced all the dining tables.

First on the program was a eulogy and prayer by Mrs. Mable Fisher. Mrs. Ethel Seigel gave a few remarks pertaining to the honored couple.

Mrs. Francile Cromley and Mrs. Virginia Fausnaugh sang "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." They were accompanied by Mrs. Carolyn Lutz at the piano.

Mrs. Fausnaugh gave an original reading entitled "We Have Lived And Loved Together." and Mrs. Leona Berger read "Then And Now."

John Dowler presented Mr. and Mrs. Kuhlwein a flower arrangement from the Grange.

Foreign Banks Scrambling To Get Part Of Oil Money

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Foreign banks are scrambling into the Beirut banking scene to get some of the new wealth flowing into Arab coffers as a result of oil price hikes.

The Arabs' take on the crude oil they sell the big Western companies has jumped more than 400 per cent in the past year, from $1.55 a barrel to $7. The Arab oil states are expected to earn about $50 billion dollars this year, and much of the money eventually will be channeled through Beirut.

At least five major foreign banks bought controlling shares in Lebanese banks in the past year, and at least seven others are shopping.

The newcomers in the past year include the Bank of America, American Fidelity and Chemical of New York. Banking sources say others lining up to get in include First National of Boston, Irving Trust, Manufacturers Hanover and Wells Fargo. Some have already opened offices.

At present, 42 of the 75 chartered banks here are controlled or owned by foreign interests. They account for 60 per cent of Lebanon's total bank deposits, which local bankers estimate at just under $2.8 billion.

But the lure for foreign banks here is not just deposits. Beirut as the Arab world's chief financial window also handles millions in investments, credits, development projects and other financial trading.

One banker pointed out that last year Saudi Arabia's sheiks had to struggle to spend and invest $2.4 billion of their $3.6 billion oil income.

"Now what are they going to do with $20 billion this year?" he asked.

They Retired Her Number

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernestine Jackson, the star of the Broadway show, "Raisin," has something new in her wardrobe. But she never wears it.

A former Chock Full o' Nuts waitress, the chain retired her uniform and number, 3535, and gave it to her. Miss Jackson put it in her closet.

Program Planned For Garden Club

Mrs. Clyde Michel and Mrs. Herman Porter will review the book "Plants Are Like People" during the 8 p.m. Monday meeting of Monrovia Garden Club in the social room of Five Points United Methodist Church.

Robert Sweet, guest speaker, will use "Bedding Plants" as his topic. Hostesses are Mrs. Lloyd Neff, Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs. Irene Knox and Mrs. Charles DePugh.

Georgia Rejects Rights Amendment

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) —The Georgia House of Representatives has rejected ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

The vote Monday night was 104-70 against the amendment, which would provide that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Thirty-two states have ratified ERA and it will become the 27th amendment to the Constitution if six more states approve it.

Red Cross Volunteers Feted

At a luncheon held recently for Red Cross Volunteers and friends at Community United Methodist Church, special recognition was given to volunteers who joined in 1973.

They were: Rich Justus, Marilyn Meenach, Mary Poling, Virginia Simpson, Ellen Dunlap, Marilyn Fausnaugh, Teda Theis, Nevada Bond, Fran Logan, Barbara Milstead, Ralph Roby, Lagene Sellers, Carol West, Betty Smith, Barbara Leaker, Delores North, Marilyn Scranton, Helen Good, Kathryn Schleich, Jeanne Grunden, Nellie VanZant and Pam Hamilton.

Two volunteers, Pug Jackson and Marsha Kowalski, have transferred into Pickaway County. Both have previously been volunteers on military bases.

Ohio Girl Scouts Will Train For Disaster Service

The State of Ohio Disaster Services Agency at the request of Col. Frank Ruvio Jr., deputy director, has signed a memorandum of understanding with the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council Inc.

Senior Girl Scouts will be trained in communications and rescue skills. The girls will form a nucleus for such services in case of man-made or natural disasters that would occur in their communities.

The signing of this agreement creates a first in bringing the two organizations together to give disaster training, and to prepare the young women of the community to be qualified in disaster assistance.

Mrs. Carl Covey of Columbus serves as the Girl Scout Liaison, and is responsible for the training and service programs organized by the Girl Scouts to meet the responsibilities expected of them through this agreement.

near future. Volunteers serve at Berger Hospital in several positions: on the floor, with patients, at the reception desk, in the emergency room, office, X-ray, maternity wing and assisting with clinics.

Others drive in the motor service, are advisors to the youth, aid patients at the VA Hospital, assist with the Blood Program and sew monthly at the chapter.

A new training program has been set up for all volunteers, both youth and adults. Mrs. Polly Miller will give Red Cross orientation the first Thursday of each month. After volunteers choose the area of service they prefer, they are then given additional training according to the needs of the position.

Anyone interested in serving their community through Red Cross volunteer service may secure more information by calling the Pickaway County Chapter, 474-5736.

Special Meeting Held By GOP Boosters Club

A special meeting was held by GOP Boosters on Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Wayne Stonerock, 1250 S. Pickaway St.

Following a carry-in dinner, Mrs. John Steinhauser led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America.

Miss Lucille Dumm used as her topic for the evening "Support The President." She told of the accomplishments of Richard M. Nixon and questioned why there has not been heard the voices of wives and mothers who kept demanding the war to end and the return of husbands and sons. She said she wonders why they aren't forming groups to march or get out and speak up for the man who has done more than any other on this particular subject.

She concluded her talk by saying that whether or not everyone likes Richard Nixon, why not at least be fair to him? Members voted unanimously to back the President and reserve judgement until the entire story is told.

A games party followed with prizes brought by members given to winners.

Mrs. Stonerock will be hostess for the regular meeting in February.

Using a little cooking fat or oil in a teflon skillet isn't of course necessary, but the food cooked in the skillet has improved color and flavor if a little fat or oil is used.

Golden Wedding Celebrated By Scioto Grange

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kuhlwein, Route 1, Lockbourne were honored by Scioto Valley Grange on Tuesday evening in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary which is Jan. 31st.

The evening's activities at the Grange hall began with a carry-in dinner attended by 60 friends. The center table was decorated with a cake topped with a bride and groom, floral arrangements and candles. Flowers and candles graced all the dining tables.

First on the program was a eulogy and prayer by Mrs. Mable Fisher. Mrs. Ethel Seigel gave a few remarks pertaining to the honored couple.

Mrs. Francie Cromley and Mrs. Virginia Fausnaugh sang "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." They were accompanied by Mrs. Carolyn Lutz at the piano.

Mrs. Fausnaugh gave an original reading entitled "We Have Lived And Loved Together," and Mrs. Leona Berger read "Then And Now."

John Dowler presented Mr. and Mrs. Kuhlwein a flower arrangement from the Grange.

Foreign Banks Scrambling To Get Part Of Oil Money

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Foreign banks are scrambling into the Beirut banking scene to get some of the new wealth flowing into Arab coffers as a result of oil price hikes.

The Arabs' take on the crude oil they sell the big Western companies has jumped more than 400 per cent in the past year, from $1.55 a barrel to $7. The Arab oil states are expected to earn about $50 billion dollars this year, and much of the money eventually will be channeled through Beirut.

At least five major foreign banks bought controlling shares in Lebanese banks in the past year, and at least seven others are shopping.

The newcomers in the past year include the Bank of America, American Fidelity and Chemical of New York. Banking sources say others lining up to get in include First National of Boston, Irving Trust, Manufacturers Hanover and Wells Fargo. Some have already opened offices.

At present, 42 of the 75 chartered banks here are controlled or owned by foreign interests. They account for 60 per cent of Lebanon's total bank deposits, which local bankers estimate at just under $2.8 billion.

But the lure for foreign banks here is not just deposits. Beirut as the Arab world's chief financial window also handles millions in investments, credits, development projects and other financial trading.

One banker pointed out that last year Saudi Arabia's sheiks had to struggle to spend and invest $2.4 billion of their $3.6 billion oil income.

"Now what are they going to do with $20 billion this year?" he asked.

They Retired Her Number

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernestine Jackson, the star of the Broadway show, "Raisin," has something new in her wardrobe. But she never wears it.

A former Chock Full o' Nuts waitress, the chain retired her uniform and number, 3535, and gave it to her. Miss Jackson put it in her closet.

Program Planned For Garden Club

Mrs. Clyde Michel and Mrs. Herman Porter will review the book "Plants Are Like People" during the 8 p.m. Monday meeting of Monrovia Garden Club in the social room of Five Points United Methodist Church.

Robert Sweet, guest speaker, will use "Bedding Plants" as his topic. Hostesses are Mrs. Lloyd Neff, Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs. Irene Knox and Mrs. Charles DePugh.

Georgia Rejects Rights Amendment

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) —The Georgia House of Representatives has rejected ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

The vote Monday night was 104-70 against the amendment, which would provide that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Thirty-two states have ratified ERA and it will become the 27th amendment to the Constitution if six more states approve it.

Slap Doesn't Teach

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow with a 4-year-old son I'll call "Jimmy." Six months ago I married John. Sunday, the three of us were dining in a restaurant when Jimmy deliberately threw a dinner roll on the floor. John promptly slapped Jimmy across the face so hard it left an imprint on the boy's cheek. Jimmy didn't cry out, he whimpered a little and bit his lip, then big tears started to run down his cheeks.

A man at a nearby table witnessed the incident, and walked over to John and said, "The boy is hardly a match for you. Why don't you pick on somebody your own size and step outside with me?"

My husband told the stranger to "get lost" and I quietly said, "Thank you, sir, please let me handle this." The stranger left, and not a word was said for the rest of the evening.

My husband insists that he only wanted to teach Jimmy a lesson. I say he shouldn't have slapped the child's face in public. What is your opinion?

Soil Survey Report Made

The soil survey of Pickaway County has been underway for 4½ years according to James W. Kerr, soil resource specialist.

Kerr is the party chief for the local survey, replacing Norris Williams who was assigned chief of the Trumbull County Soil Survey last summer.

During 1973 the Pickaway County Soil Survey crew mapped 30,455 acres. A total of 8,175 acres was resurveyed to make the mapping and classification comply to present day standards, and 3,693 acres were mapped for the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District. The mapping was done in different parts of the county but primarily in Harrison, Deer Creek, Wayne and Pickaway Twp.

Approximately 72 per cent of the county, 233,230 acres, has now been completed since the survey started July, 1969.

Nineteen farms were mapped and classified for SCS farm planning purposes. This is a record number for the field party.

Kerr filed his annual report of progress on the soil survey with Pickaway County Commissioners Monday.

Ralph Boyer, representing Boyer's True Value Hardware Store, Circleville, recently returned from a painting clinic conducted by experienced representatives from the Tru-Test Paint factories. At the seminar, Boyer had an opportunity to personally discuss all kinds of painting problems with technical experts. He also saw demonstrations of how to prepare surfaces for painting and how to apply paints.

Other highlights of the seminar included the introduction of the newest "House & Garden" colors custom-mixed in Tru-Test Paints and products recently developed in the two Tru-Test Paint factories. Also introduced was the newest edition of "Let's Live Color", a colorful booklet full of decorating ideas.

DuPont Promotes Stockman

C. Winston Stockman was recently promoted to a position of foreman in the quality control department of the local DuPont Company's Mylar Plant.

Married, he and his wife Mary Jane, are the parents of four children, Shaun Alan, Beth Anne, Gaye and Tanya. They reside in Kingston where they are members of Kingston United Methodist Church.

Stockman is currently chairman of the council of ministries. He is a member of the Zane Trace High School Booster Club and a member of the Kingston-Pickaway Volunteer Fire Department.

He is the son of Charles and Hazel Stockman, Route 1. Hired Dec. 2, 1959, he was first an operator in the casting area of the Mylar Plant. Stockman was later transferred to the planning section as a control operator and subsequently to the quality control department as a laboratory technician.

Navy To Seek Bigger Fleet For Protecting U.S. Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy is preparing to use the energy crisis as ammunition in its campaign for a bigger fleet.

Senior admirals will tell congressional committees in coming months that naval power is vital in keeping open the tanker routes from the Middle East and other oil producing regions.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, sounded the keynote recently when he warned that the seas could become "our weak link" without adequate naval power because "we will be increasingly dependent on the seas to bring in our oil and other critical resources."

Zumwalt's remarks came at a special hearing arranged with the cooperation of a friendly House Armed Services subcommittee in Norfolk, Va., home of the Atlantic Fleet.

To the Navy's disappointment, the hearing made no impact outside the Norfolk area, but the Navy is certain to keep trying on Capitol Hill, where a new session has just started.

Top defense officials agree the fleet needs to be larger, but they are unlikely to go as far as the Navy would like.

In the past five years, the fleet has shrunk from 976 ships to 511 as older vessels were laid up to devote more money to modernization.

Pentagon leaders say they plan to build up the fleet to about 550-600 ships, but the great and rising cost of shipbuilding will keep the United States from ever having a fleet as big as it once did.

The downward trend will be reversed later this year when new advanced destroyers, attack submarines and other ships that Congress authorized in past years begin to join the fleet.

Both Navy and defense officials want to stress smaller, more austere ships in the future. One such vessel is a 14,000-ton Sea Control Ship, which will carry only about 17 helicopters and planes designed to fly from short decks.

a child's face in public or in private. The "lesson" Jimmy learned was that "might makes right." I hope you handled it by explaining to John that reasonable men educate with words—not violence.

DEAR ABBY: Your stand against spouse-swapping, I agree with, but I must protest your use of the term, "wife-swapping." A wife is not a possession, or a commodity or a mindless ninny who may be swapped or lent at the will of her husband. Yet, this is exactly what the term implies. (Have you ever heard anyone call it "husband swapping"?)

WORDS COUNT

DEAR WORDS: You are right, of course. The whole idea of "mate trading" (better?) is disgusting to me, but I promise to refrain from using a term that puts women on the same level with a used car.

DEAR ABBY: I am an officially-engaged young woman with a serious problem. Last week I went somewhere with a girl friend without telling my fiancé. (We went to a singles bash.)

The first person I saw at the bash was my fiancé! Now he won't even speak to me when I call him on the telephone.

I'd like to see him so I can patch things up. But how?

STILL SINGLE

DEAR STILL: Go to the next "single bash"—you'll probably find him there. You have as much reason to be angry with him as he has to be angry with you. And unless he's willing to bury the hatchet, I suggest you become officially single again.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cemetery Assn. Holds Election Of Officers

The annual membership meeting of the Forest Cemetery Association was held Monday for the election of trustees and the transaction of other association business.

Three trustees, whose terms of office expired, were reelected. They are: Howard N. Stevenson, Charles Pugsley and Joseph F. Bell.

Other members of the Board of Trustees are Durward D. Dowden, Robert S. Elsea, George D. Young and Clarence Radcliffe.

The trustees met following the membership meeting, organized, and transacted routine business. Officers elected for the year 1974 are Durward D. Dowden, president; Robert S. Elsea, vice president; and Mary E. Weffler, treasurer.

The following operating personnel were reemployed: Melvin A. Yates, board secretary and accountant; Mary E. Weffler, office secretary; and Nolan Sims Jr., Superintendent.

The Forest Cemetery Association is an unincorporated, non-profit association with all members of the board of trustees serving without compensation.

The association has a well established Endowment Care Fund policy placing 20 per cent of all lot and grave sales income in this fund. These funds are invested in U.S. Government securities, the income from which is available for the maintenance, beautification and operation of the cemetery.

Reservation System For Campsites Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new reservation system for state park campsites will begin Feb. 1, Ohio Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said Tuesday.

The system will offer reservation up to 90 days in advance for 3,525 sites at a dozen parks.

They are East Harbor, Indian Lake, Delaware, Pymatuning, Salt Fork, Mohican, Hocking Hills, Dillon, Lake Hope, Hueston Woods, Stonelick and Cowan Lake state parks.

Brian received many nice gifts from the guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Neff of Circleville, Florence Stahr, Mary Frances Poling, Mr. and Mrs. Dan DeLong Sr., Cindy and Christy, Mike DeLong, Troy Shiner, Bill Gooley and Mrs. Hugh Poling. Ice cream, cake and punch were served to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Karshner, Mrs. George Reid and Adam Schaal were guests to Sunday dinner of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Aaron and Beth Ann of near Amanda.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chilcote and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bowers were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Chilcote and son Nick of Westerville. The supper was in honor of their son David's 10th birthday.

OUR NEW IDENTITY LABELING TELLS YOU WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Match our new and improved system of meat identity labeling with the beef, pork, lamb and veal retail meat charts on display in our meat department and you're on your way to quicker and easier shopping every time. Cooking methods recommended on the charts tell you how to prepare and serve the many cuts of meat with all the tempting flavor and savory goodness your entire family will enjoy.

- 1 KIND OF MEAT — No need to guess on the kind of meat. First, on every label is the kind of meat — BEEF, PORK, LAMB or VEAL.
- 2 PRIMAL (WHOLESALE) CUT — CHUCK, RIB, LOIN or ROUND — tells where the meat comes from.
- 3 SPECIFIC PORTION OR RETAIL CUT — BLADE POT ROAST, SIRLOIN STEAK, or TOP ROUND STEAK — tells you exactly what part of the primal cut the meat comes from.

FOUR LARGE CHARTS OF RETAIL MEAT CUTS, for your convenience, are on display in all our stores. Beef, pork, lamb and veal charts will help you identify our cuts of meat on display and suggest approved ways for cooking them.

IF YOU HAVE QUESTIONS about our new meat identification program, ask our meat department people the next time you're in our store. Or Call Our Home Economist, Betty Brown, At 221-5361

MEAT IDENTITY LABELING conforms to the nationwide UNIFORM RETAIL MEAT IDENTITY STANDARDS and is endorsed by the NATIONAL LIVE STOCK & MEAT BOARD

My job here is working for you — providing consumer services that will help you learn more about the products in our store. And in the case of meat, help you select the cuts you want more quickly & more easily than ever before. Our new meat identity labeling program can help homemakers in many ways:

MENU VARIETY — If you want to take advantage of the tremendous variety offered in our meat department, you can prepare a different meat dish every day of the year! Even though you're not looking for that much variety, being familiar with large number of cuts in our meat counters will certainly add flexibility to your menu planning.

FOOD BUDGET ECONOMY — By knowing your cuts of meat, there will be times when you'll be able to select cuts that are in less demand at substantial savings and with very satisfactory cooking results. Being familiar with meat cuts is sure to pay off in greater savings in your food budget.

EXPECT BETTER COOKING RESULTS when you can properly identify cuts of meat and then follow the proper methods of preparation.

UNIFORM MEAT LABELING NATIONWIDE — The National Livestock and Meatboard is urging all supermarkets across the country to label their meats to conform to the nationwide retail meat identity standards. For the shopper, this will mean even more if she moves from one section of the county to another, she can expect to find meat labeled in the same manner as she has been accustomed to. In other words, regional names such as California Roasts or Patio Chops will be eliminated — along with a lot of confusion!

We hope you find this new meat identity labeling program a big help in menu-planning, shopping and cooking. It's our way of helping you do your job a little better, while we do ours better too!

Ridership Boost Smothers Amtrak

By MARC CHARNEY
Associated Press Writer

Amtrak, the nation's government-backed rail passenger corporation, has sloganeered, advertised, bought locomotives, refurbished cars, lobbied on Capitol Hill and negotiated with money-starved railroads for three years now, trying to put the romance back in rail travel.

Now the energy crisis is bringing Amtrak the business it pleaded for — but faster than anyone expected, and sometimes in crisis proportions.

The result: Some officials predict travelers switching from autos and planes will find the going tough.

Amtrak officials point to improvement programs, but the biggest changes are from 1½ to 5 years away. And the biggest problems have been when people most want to travel — on holiday weekends and in vacation peaks.

The hard fact is that Amtrak is accustomed to handling about one per cent of the nation's intercity passenger traffic. Most of those travelers — 87 per cent — go by auto, 10 per cent use airplanes, and 3 per cent ride buses. Even a one per cent shift of auto traffic would double Amtrak's ridership.

A semipublic corporation backed with government funds, Amtrak took over running all but a handful of America's intercity passenger trains in May, 1971. The railroads had long since lost interest, standing by while passenger travel fell from 98 billion passenger miles in 1944 to 9 billion, including commutation, in 1971.

The aim in creating Amtrak was to trim the rail passenger system to one serving about 20 major American cities as well as intermediate points, on 23,000 miles of track, and to slowly rejuvenate it with new equipment and amenities in which private railroads wouldn't invest.

Growth — if any — was expected to be slow, perhaps 12-to-15 per cent a year.

But in the first three months of the energy crisis, it hasn't been slow. It's mushroomed, with the advent of gasless Sundays, 50 mile an hour highway speed limits, and curtailed air schedules.

"The last time I rode back by car it took all day, driving at 50," said Jack Yellin at Washington's Union Station after returning to college by train from New Brunswick, N.J. "I'm not looking for rides at school any more. The extra time just isn't worth it."

Amtrak officials say they can't tell how many habits have changed for good, but Yellin had a lot of company in the preholiday days when the energy crisis first hit.

Revenues in November, including price changes, were up 50 per cent over November 1972. Overall ridership in December was up 18 per cent over December 1972. And advance bookings were coming in at a rate almost 2½ times that of July and August.

To cope in November, Amtrak said, it was able to run 25 per cent more cars on the same 210 daily trains over roughly the same 23,000 miles of track as the year before.

The New York-Washington run, easily the busiest with 50 of Amtrak's 210 daily trains, carried 9,125 passengers a day through Philadelphia in week of Dec. 17 — up 29 per cent over the same preholiday week in 1972.

New York-Boston traffic, measured at New Haven, Conn., was up 65 per cent. In Chicago 529 passengers a day, up 73 per cent, were on Chicago-Detroit trains. And in Richmond, Va., a dramatic 81 per cent increase was recorded on New York-Florida trains, hauling 2,630 passengers a day.

The strain showed, especially on Amtrak's efforts to add glamor and convenience.

In New York's Penn Station on the Saturday before Christmas, hundreds shoved each other toward the "Statesman" to Boston — a motley collection of three antiquated Penn Central cars, two newer cars whose lights didn't work, a refurbished Amtrak car whose door needed repair, and two more refurbished cars in better condition.

On another Boston-Washington that weekend, dozens of passengers rode south on lounge seats in lavatory compartments, on suitcases parked in aisles, and standing on unheated platforms between cars.

"Any mode — airlines, trains, buses — never has enough equipment to run on holiday periods," an Amtrak spokesman explained.

"It's been like this ever since the energy crisis began," the "Statesman's" snack bar attendant said.

"We thought Amtrak could handle a gradual increase of business, but now because of the fuel crisis, the increase is unnatural and Amtrak won't be able to handle it," says Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., a strong rail backer.

"We are going to have a lot of dislocation in the next few years," Adams says. "A guy isn't going to be able to get where he wants to get when he wants to get there."

Amtrak, which lost an estimated $275 million in its first two fiscal years, has been running at 45 per cent of load capacity on an average. Spokesmen say it could, in theory, double ridership with present equipment. But since November, usage has been heaviest on already heavily travelled lines at times of heaviest demand.

So to get people where they wanted to go when they wanted to get there, Amtrak had to again fall back in the preholiday crush on borrowing commuter cars and other creaking equipment from railroads. That was despite speedup of a program under which Amtrak refurbishes its own cars — the best 1,900 that the railroads had to offer in 1971.

Amtrak has already spent some $51.5 million refurbishing cars, and plans have been made to acquire new equipment, upgrade roadbeds, and improve service. But the first of 57 new cars won't be on line for 15 months, the next batch of 100-200 for three or four years. Some major track renovation will take five years or more.

So as a first order of business in the energy crisis, says Amtrak spokesman Edwin Edel, a task force is taking a second look at cars previously rejected with the aim of finding 200 or 250 to supplement the current fleet.

Right now, 1,067 Amtrak cars have undergone renovation, and about 400 more are to be improved by summer. Excluding Metroliners serving New Haven-Washington and turbotrains between Chicago-St. Louis and Boston-New York, all but 200 of the cars date to the early 1950s or before.

Amtrak says real improvement in its locomotive fleet will show by this summer, when the current fleet of 300 locomotives will make way for 150 new 100-mile-an-hour diesels, 26 new electric locomotives, and 40 old engines now being rebuilt.

Amtrak spokesmen are quick to blame dilapidated road conditions, not the strain of the energy crisis, as a basic reason for worsening on-time records. The 1,144 long-distance trains Amtrak ran in November were on time only 40 per cent of the time, down from 50 per cent in November, 1972. On shorter-distance "corridor" runs — primarily in the East — 3,512 trains were on time 71.5 per cent of the time in November. The previous November, the figure was 80.8 per cent.

Today, Edel explains, Amtrak has authority to insist only that railroads maintain roadbeds at the sometimes painfully slow standards of May, 1971, when the rail passenger corporation took over running all but eight of the nation's intercity passenger trains.

The current restructuring of seven bankrupt Eastern railroads into one governmentaided freight system gives Amtrak hope new standards can be achieved on some of the worst track, or that Amtrak can acquire the track and improve it itself. But John Ingram, head of the Federal Railroad Administration, says Amtrak and the new freight system, which doesn't need fast track, may not decide who owns the roadbed in the crucial Eastern corridor for a year and a half.

Such disagreement could effectively delay extension to Boston of Amtrak's crack highspeed service, now serving the heavily-travelled Washington-New York corridor with Metroliners. The first 57 new Amtrak cars will be coaches to extend that service northward, and delivery starts in mid-1975.

But true high-speed service must wait until the roadbed between New Haven and Boston is electrified and the entire corridor to Washington is upgraded to 125 mile-an-hour standards, a five-year program that starts when ownership is resolved. Until then, the new cars mean more equipment and comfort — at only slightly faster diesel speeds.

Selective Service Plans 'Mail-In' Registration

Ohio Selective Service Director Paul A. Corey announced that very shortly some 18-year-olds will be able to register for the draft by mail rather than appearing in person at a registrar's office.

Young men in Pickaway County register at Logan Elm High School, Westfall High School, Fitzpatrick Printing Shop, 119 E. Franklin St., and the Veterans Service Office, Pickaway County Courthouse.

Mentor Youth Remains Missing

MENTOR, Ohio (AP)—For four days, scores of police, firemen and volunteers have searched the swampy Mentor Lagoons area for 6-year-old Timothy Malenda, who vanished from his home Friday.

The mail-in registration program is designed for those youths who cannot register in person because neither a local board office nor a voluntary registrar is in a convenient location. Corey cautioned the law requires all male persons in the United States must register with selective service within a 60-day period beginning 30 days prior to their 18th birthday.

Ohio National Guardsmen, members of the Headlands Beach State Park patrol and private citizens from as far away as Parma have joined the search of the heavily wooded area.

A cousin, Jim Vincent, who lives nearby, said Tuesday scuba divers have probed the murky waters of the lagoon area, and National Guard helicopters have searched from the air.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, cast opposite votes Tuesday when the Senate sent the energy emergency bill back to a conference committee.

No trace of the missing youngster has been reported.

Ridership Boost Smothers Amtrak

By MARC CHARNEY
Associated Press Writer

Amtrak, the nation's government-backed rail passenger corporation, has sloganeered, advertised, bought locomotives, refurbished cars, lobbied on Capitol Hill and negotiated with money-starved railroads for three years now, trying to put the romance back in rail travel.

Now the energy crisis is bringing Amtrak the business it pleaded for — but faster than anyone expected, and sometimes in crisis proportions.

The result: Some officials predict travelers switching from autos and planes will find the going tough.

Amtrak officials point to improvement programs, but the biggest changes are from 1½ to 5 years away. And the biggest problems have been when people most want to travel — on holiday weekends and in vacation peaks.

The hard fact is that Amtrak is accustomed to handling about one per cent of the nation's intercity passenger traffic. Most of those travelers — 87 per cent — go by auto, 10 per cent use airplanes, and 3 per cent ride buses. Even a one per cent shift of auto traffic would double Amtrak's ridership.

A semipublic corporation backed with government funds, Amtrak took over running all but a handful of America's intercity passenger trains in May, 1971. The railroads had long since lost interest, standing by while passenger travel fell from 98 billion passenger miles in 1944 to 9 billion, including commutation, in 1971.

The aim in creating Amtrak was to trim the rail passenger system to one serving about 20 major American cities as well as intermediate points, on 23,000 miles of track, and to slowly rejuvenate it with new equipment and amenities in which private railroads wouldn't invest.

Growth — if any — was expected to be slow, perhaps 12-to-15 per cent a year.

But in the first three months of the energy crisis, it hasn't been slow. It's mushroomed, with the advent of gasless Sundays, 50 mile an hour highway speed limits, and curtailed air schedules.

"The last time I rode back by car it took all day, driving at 50," said Jack Yellin at Washington's Union Station after returning to college by train from New Brunswick, N.J. "I'm not looking for rides at school any more. The extra time just isn't worth it."

Amtrak officials say they can't tell how many habits have changed for good, but Yellin had a lot of company in the preholiday days when the energy crisis first hit.

Revenues in November, including price changes, were up 50 per cent over November 1972. Overall ridership in December was up 18 per cent over December 1972. And advance bookings were coming in at a rate almost 2½ times that of July and August.

To cope in November, Amtrak said, it was able to run 25 per cent more cars on the same 210 daily trains over roughly the same 23,000 miles of track as the year before.

The New York-Washington run, easily the busiest with 50 of Amtrak's 210 daily trains, carried 9,125 passengers a day through Philadelphia in week of Dec. 17 — up 29 per cent over the same preholiday week in 1972.

New York-Boston traffic, measured at New Haven, Conn., was up 65 per cent. In Chicago 529 passengers a day, up 73 per cent, were on Chicago-Detroit trains. And in Richmond, Va., a dramatic 81 per cent increase was recorded on New York-Florida trains, hauling 2,630 passengers a day.

The strain showed, especially on Amtrak's efforts to add glamor and convenience.

In New York's Penn Station on the Saturday before Christmas, hundreds shoved each other toward the "Statesman" to Boston — a motley collection of three antiquated Penn Central cars, two newer cars whose lights didn't work, a refurbished Amtrak car whose door needed repair, and two more refurbished cars in better condition.

On another Boston-Washington that weekend, dozens of passengers rode south on lounge seats in lavatory compartments, on suitcases parked in aisles, and standing on unheated platforms between cars.

"Any mode — airlines, trains, buses — never has enough equipment to run on holiday periods," an Amtrak spokesman explained.

"It's been like this ever since the energy crisis began," the "Statesman's" snack bar attendant said.

"We thought Amtrak could handle a gradual increase of business, but now because of the fuel crisis, the increase is unnatural and Amtrak won't be able to handle it," says Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., a strong rail backer.

"We are going to have a lot of dislocation in the next few years," Adams says. "A guy isn't going to be able to get where he wants to get when he wants to get there."

Amtrak, which lost an estimated $275 million in its first two fiscal years, has been running at 45 per cent of load capacity on an average. Spokesmen say it could, in theory, double ridership with present equipment. But since November, usage has been heaviest on already heavily travelled lines at times of heaviest demand.

So to get people where they wanted to go when they wanted to get there, Amtrak had to again fall back in the preholiday crush on borrowing commuter cars and other creaking equipment from railroads. That was despite speedup of a program under which Amtrak refurbishes its own cars — the best 1,900 that the railroads had to offer in 1971.

Amtrak has already spent some $51.5 million refurbishing cars, and plans have been made to acquire new equipment, upgrade roadbeds, and improve service. But the first of 57 new cars won't be on line for 15 months, the next batch of 100-200 for three or four years. Some major track renovation will take five years or more.

So as a first order of business in the energy crisis, says Amtrak spokesman Edwin Edel, a task force is taking a second look at cars previously rejected with the aim of finding 200 or 250 to supplement the current fleet.

Right now, 1,067 Amtrak cars have undergone renovation, and about 400 more are to be improved by summer. Excluding Metroliners serving New Haven-Washington and turbotrains between Chicago-St. Louis and Boston-New York, all but 200 of the cars date to the early 1950s or before.

Amtrak says real improvement in its locomotive fleet will show by this summer, when the current fleet of 300 locomotives will make way for 150 new 100-mile-an-hour diesels, 26 new electric locomotives, and 40 old engines now being rebuilt.

Amtrak spokesmen are quick to blame dilapidated road conditions, not the strain of the energy crisis, as a basic reason for worsening on-time records. The 1,144 long-distance trains Amtrak ran in November were on time only 40 per cent of the time, down from 50 per cent in November, 1972. On shorter-distance "corridor" runs — primarily in the East — 3,512 trains were on time 71.5 per cent of the time in November. The previous November, the figure was 80.8 per cent.

Today, Edel explains, Amtrak has authority to insist only that railroads maintain roadbeds at the sometimes painfully slow standards of May, 1971, when the rail passenger corporation took over running all but eight of the nation's intercity passenger trains.

The current restructuring of seven bankrupt Eastern railroads into one governmentaided freight system gives Amtrak hope new standards can be achieved on some of the worst track, or that Amtrak can acquire the track and improve it itself. But John Ingram, head of the Federal Railroad Administration, says Amtrak and the new freight system, which doesn't need fast track, may not decide who owns the roadbed in the crucial Eastern corridor for a year and a half.

Such disagreement could effectively delay extension to Boston of Amtrak's crack high-speed service, now serving the heavily-travelled Washington-New York corridor with Metroliners. The first 57 new Amtrak cars will be coaches to extend that service northward, and delivery starts in mid-1975.

But true high-speed service must wait until the roadbed between New Haven and Boston is electrified and the entire corridor to Washington is upgraded to 125 mile-an-hour standards, a five-year program that starts when ownership is resolved. Until then, the new cars mean more equipment and comfort — at only slightly faster diesel speeds.

TV Vikings Down Bexley For 14th Win

After a tight first half which saw Teays Valley trailing at halftime, the Vikings exploded in the third period to gain a 69-61 decision over visiting Bexley and run their season mark to 14-0 Tuesday night.

The Vikings combined a balanced scoring attack with the big rebounding of Terry Collins to keep their unbeaten string rolling. Craig Pontius and Jeff Anderson ripped the nets for 20 points apiece,

Jim Logsdon added 12, Collins hooped nine and Terry Lambert netted eight to account for the Teays Valley scoring. Mark Liefeld led Bexley with 21 points, Phil Wright added 17, Marc Abramson had 12, Ed Klages four, Rich Hoffman three, while Matt Palmer and Dan Peters each tallied two.

some fine shooting and stout defensive play.

The Blue and Gold cagers all got into the scoring parade as they tallied 18 straight points while holding the Lions scoreless until Abramson hit a bucket at the 2:43 mark. At this point the Vikings had taken a 45-33 lead.

However, the Lions proved they were also a ball club as they battled back to cut the gap to 49-41 at the end of the period.

Pontius put the Vikings out in front 51-41 as the final frame opened. But, Bexley tallied three buckets in 35 seconds to narrow the gap to 51-47. This was the closest the Lions came the rest of the way home.

Teays Valley decided that it was time to take things in hand—and take them in hand they did—as they increased the lead to 10 points in the period and put another scalp on the pole in the Vikings' den.

The Teays Valley reserve squad was upended by Bexley, 52-32, in the preliminary. Jeff Cauger was the big man for the Vikings, topping all scorers with 18 points.

Teays Valley will return to action Friday night when the Vikings travel to Grandview in a Metropolitan League battle. A win for the Vikings will give them the league title.

Few Surprises In NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — To the surprise of practically nobody, the Dallas Cowboys drafted Tennessee State's Ed Jones — and with an equal amount of surprise, the big defensive lineman's first play was to throw the World Football League for a bit of a loss.

The tension was nonexistent Tuesday as Commissioner Pete Rozelle called the National Football League's annual body count — the draft — to order. Houston had the worst record last season — but Dallas, thanks to a trade, had the Oilers' first-round pick, mainly No. 1.

"There was never any question about him being No. 1," Cowboys' scouting chief Gil Brandt said in Dallas, moments after he'd directed the team's representatives on the phone in New York to write Jones' name on the draft card.

The Detroit team of the infant WFL had written Jones' name on its card a week ago — although it obviously figured it was just going through the motions. The WFL didn't go for him until the end of the third round. And Jones made it pretty obvious that he didn't go for the WFL.

"I prefer to play in the NFL," the 6-foot-9, 260-pounder nicknamed "Too Tall" said at a news conference in Dallas moments after his name had kicked off the draft. In fact, he'll be the tallest lineman in the NFL next season. And there's little doubt that he'll be on the line when the campaign begins.

After Jones was picked, the drama picked up just a bit—but not the tempo. It took 3¼ hours for the 26 selections of Round One to be made, the longest it's taken since the 4:16 of the first NFL-AFL combined draft of 1967.

The first day's action didn't end until 9:02 p.m. with the completion of the fifth round. That left 12 rounds — 312 of the 442 players up for grabs — for today.

Running backs accounted for a high 23 of the 75 offensive players taken Tuesday and San Diego took the first of them. The Chargers, No. 2 in the order, went for Colorado's 228-pound Bo Matthews. The New York Giants, whose 2-11-1 record equalled San Diego's but who lost the coin flip for the chance to go No. 2, didn't lose anything. They wanted John Hicks and they got the Outland Trophy-winning two-time All-American offensive tackle from Ohio State.

Chicago took Tennessee State linebacker Waymond Bryant, Baltimore picked Nebraska defensive tackle John Dutton, the New York Jets went for another defensive tackle in Indiana's Carl Barzilauskas; tight end J.V. Cain of Colorado went to St. Louis. Detroit took Penn State linebacker Ed O'Neil, San Francisco used its two first-round picks to take Alabama running back Wilbur Jackson and UCLA defensive tackle Bill Sandifer, Penn State's John Cappelletti, the Heisman Trophy-winning running back, was taken by Los Angeles ...

On and on it went. There were hardly any surprises, except perhaps that, for the first time since the NFL began drafting players in 1936, none of the teams opted for a quarterback in the first round ... or the second one, either.

Danny White was the first to go. At the start of the third round, the Cowboys took the Arizona State passer, picked in the second round by Chicago of the WFL and chosen earlier this month by baseball's Houston Astros.

"Baseball is still very much in the picture," White said. "Chicago might afford a more immediate chance to play but Dallas is an established organization with a good reputation."

David Jaynes, Kansas' quarterback and the No. 1 pick by Memphis of the WFL, finally went midway in the NFL's third round, selected by the Kansas City Chiefs.

On and on it went ... but not without a few interesting moments.

In the first round, for example, Detroit traded its pick — No. 13 overall — and center Dave Thompson to New Orleans for the Saints' first-round choice — No. 8 in the order.

The Lions used No. 8 to grab O'Neil. But when No. 13 — apparently belonging to New Orleans — came around, the Lions hollered foul. The trade had involved only Thompson, not their draft pick, they said.

Rozelle ruled in favor of the Saints, who took Ohio State linebacker Rick Middleton. And Rozelle said the whole thing would be open to post-draft review.

There was an in-draft review, too, when Washington, which has a thing about unloading draft choices, tossed three of them to San Diego in return for veteran guard Walt Sweeney.

The review was by the NFL brass — which very carefully checked its books to make sure Washington Coach George Allen actually owned the choices he was unloading.

But the highlight — for just about everybody in the big room, anyway — came at the end of round No. 5 when Miami took 4½ minutes to choose linebacker Cleveland Vann of Oklahoma State. If the Dolphins had used 1½ minutes it would've been 8:59 p.m. and a sixth round — another hour or so — would have started. Instead, scout Doug Minner, on the phone in Miami, supposedly dawdled for a few precious minutes, it became 9:02 p.m. and everybody breathed a sigh of relief and prepared to go home.

UP AND IN—Jeff Anderson hits on a driving layup to put two more points on the board for the Teays Valley Vikings against Bexley Tuesday night. Anderson came off the bench to tally 20 points during the evening. The Vikings ran their season record to 14-0.

Zane Trace Upends New Boston, 67-58

Zane Trace ran its season mark to 10-2 with a 67-58 win over visiting New Boston Tuesday night.

It was a tight ball game for the first two periods but the Pioneers jumped out in front early in the third quarter and stayed there the rest of the way.

Zane Trace trailed 13-11 at the end of the first canto, led 29-24 at the half and held a 45-38 margin at the third period buzzer.

New Boston took a 33-31 lead early in the third frame but the Pioneers quickly regained the lead. The closest New Boston came after that was 48-44 in the final quarter.

Jeff Wright came up with a hot hand for Zane Trace as he hit 11 of 14 shots from the floor for a total of 22 points. Mike Miller added 15 markers, Barry DeLong tallied 13, Charles Thurston had 11, Tim Whitten four and Pete Prewett two.

Jim Conley led New Boston with 21 points, Chuck Yeley had 11, John Conley nine, Jeff Patrick eight, Rance Cooper seven and Bill Paxon tallied two.

Rebounds were about even with New Boston getting 28 and Zane Trace 27. Whitten led the Pioneers while Jim Conley paced New Boston.

Trace hit 27 of 59 shots from the floor for 45 per cent and converted 18 of 17 from the free throw line.

New Boston was 25 of 52 from the field and eight of 19 from the charity stripe.

Zane Trace will be at Piketon Friday night and on the road at Unioto Saturday night.

LE Wins Threesome

The Logan Elm seventh, eighth and ninth grade basketball teams all won games played Tuesday.

The seventh graders edged St. Mary's Catholic of Lancaster 33-40, the eighth graders defeated St. Mary's 47-41 and the ninth graders won on a last second shot at Westfall, 30-29.

Terry Holzschuh scored the winning basket for the Braves at Westfall. The leading scorer for the winners was Doug Woods with eight points. Holzschuh tallied six, Mark Skinner five, Eric Maxson four, Steve Bowling three, Mike Patrick and Chuck Cave two each.

For Westfall John Long hooped 11, Dave Clem six, Carl Strittmatter and Neil Keller four each, Chuck Mettler and Eric Schleich two each.

Tony Crist paced the LE eighth graders with 15 points. Jerry Scanlan scored 13. For the losing St. Mary's team, Ballinger scored 18 and Flower 11.

The LE seventh graders were led by Terry Wadlington with 11 points and Dan Hill with eight. For St. Mary's, Ausec netted 11 and Connell seven.

The Westfall frosh have a 5-6 record. The LE frosh an 8-1 record, the LE eighth graders an 8-1 mark and the seventh graders a 9-0 record.

Westfall plays at Mt. Sterling Thursday. The LE seventh and eighth grade play at Fairfield Union Thursday.

TV Vikings Down Bexley For 14th Win

After a tight first half which saw Teays Valley trailing at halftime, the Vikings exploded in the third period to gain a 69-61 decision over visiting Bexley and run their season mark to 14-0 Tuesday night.

The Vikings combined a balanced scoring attack with the big rebounding of Terry Collins to keep their unbeaten string rolling. Craig Pontius and Jeff Anderson ripped the nets for 20 points apiece,

Jim Logsdon added 12, Collins hooped nine and Terry Lambert netted eight to account for the Teays Valley scoring.

Mark Liefeld led Bexley with 21 points, Phil Wright added 17, Marc Abramson had 12, Ed Klages four, Rich Hoffman three, while Matt Palmer and Dan Peters each tallied two.

The Vikings pulled down 36 rebounds to 25 for the Lions. Collins was the big man for the Vikings as he pounded the boards like an angry carpenter with a heavy hammer and grabbed 17 missed shots. Hoffman and Liefeld paced the Lions in this department.

Teays Valley continued its hot shooting as the Vikings hit on 29 of 58 shots from the floor for 50 per cent. They converted 11 of 17 from the charity stripe.

Bexley sank 24 of 60 attempts from the field for 40 per cent and hit 13 of 21 from the foul line for 62 per cent.

The fast pace of the game took its toll in the turnover department with the Vikings committing 25 and Bexley 24.

Jay Brinker is still suffering with a badly sprained ankle and did not see any action for the Vikings.

It was nip and tuck through the first canto with Bexley holding a narrow lead with 56 seconds left in the period. But, Anderson came off the bench to sink a pair of long shots and Logsdon tallied from the side to put the Vikings on top 12-9 at the buzzer.

Pontius and Collins went to work in the second frame for the Vikings but Liefeld and Wright countered for Bexley and the Lions held a 29-27 margin at halftime.

The zone defense seemed to bother the Vikings in the first half and they weren't getting the good shots.

Klages hit a bucket for Bexley at the 7:43 mark of the third period to put the Lions in front 31-27.

But, now the Vikings showed why they are unbeaten on the season with some fine shooting and stout defensive play.

The Blue and Gold cagers all got into the scoring parade as they tallied 18 straight points while holding the Lions scoreless until Abramson hit a bucket at the 2:43 mark. At this point the Vikings had taken a 45-33 lead.

However, the Lions proved they were also a ball club as they battled back to cut the gap to 49-41 at the end of the period.

Pontius put the Vikings out in front 51-41 as the final frame opened. But, Bexley tallied three buckets in 35 seconds to narrow the gap to 51-47. This was the closest the Lions came the rest of the way home.

Teays Valley decided that it was time to take things in hand—and take them in hand they did—as they increased the lead to 10 points in the period and put another scalp on the pole in the Vikings' den.

The Teays Valley reserve squad was upended by Bexley, 52-32, in the preliminary. Jeff Cauer was the big man for the Vikings, topping all scorers with 18 points.

Teays Valley will return to action Friday night when the Vikings travel to Grandview in a Metropolitan League battle. A win for the Vikings will give them the league title.

Few Surprises In NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — To the surprise of practically nobody, the Dallas Cowboys drafted Tennessee State's Ed Jones — and with an equal amount of surprise, the big defensive lineman's first play was to throw the World Football League for a bit of a loss.

The tension was nonexistent Tuesday as Commissioner Pete Rozelle called the National Football League's annual body count — the draft — to order. Houston had the worst record last season — but Dallas, thanks to a trade, had the Oilers' first-round pick, mainly No. 1.

"There was never any question about him being No. 1," Cowboys' scouting chief Gil Brandt said in Dallas, moments after he'd directed the team's representatives on the phone in New York to write Jones' name on the draft card.

The Detroit team of the infant WFL had written Jones' name on its card a week ago — although it obviously figured it was just going through the motions. The WFL didn't go for him until the end of the third round. And Jones made it pretty obvious that he didn't go for the WFL.

"I prefer to play in the NFL," the 6-foot-9, 260-pounder nicknamed "Too Tall" said at a news conference in Dallas moments after his name had kicked off the draft. In fact, he'll be the tallest lineman in the NFL next season. And there's little doubt that he'll be on the line when the campaign begins.

After Jones was picked, the drama picked up just a bit—but not the tempo. It took 3 1/2 hours for the 26 selections of Round One to be made, the longest it's taken since the 4:16 of the first NFL-AFL combined draft of 1967.

The first day's action didn't end until 9:02 p.m. with the completion of the fifth round. That left 12 rounds — 312 of the 442 players up for grabs — for today.

Running backs accounted for a high 23 of the 75 offensive players taken Tuesday and San Diego took the first of them. The Chargers, No. 2 in the order, went for Colorado's 228-pound Bo Matthews. The New York Giants, whose 2-11-1 record equalled San Diego's but who lost the coin flip for the chance to go No. 2, didn't lose anything. They wanted John Hicks and they got the Outland Trophy-winning two-time All-American offensive tackle from Ohio State.

Chicago took Tennessee State linebacker Waymond Bryant, Baltimore picked Nebraska defensive tackle John Dutton, the New York Jets went for another defensive tackle in Indiana's Carl Barzilauskas; tight end J.V. Cain of Colorado went to St. Louis. Detroit took Penn State linebacker Ed O'Neil, San Francisco used its two first-round picks to take Alabama running back Wilbur Jackson and UCLA defensive tackle Bill Sandifer, Penn State's John Cappelletti, the Heisman Trophy-winning running back, was taken by Los Angeles ...

On and on it went. There were hardly any surprises, except perhaps that, for the first time since the NFL began drafting players in 1936, none of the teams opted for a quarterback in the first round ... or the second one, either.

Danny White was the first to go. At the start of the third round, the Cowboys took the Arizona State passer, picked in the second round by Chicago of the WFL and chosen earlier this month by baseball's Houston Astros.

"Baseball is still very much in the picture," White said. "Chicago might afford a more immediate chance to play but Dallas is an established organization with a good reputation."

David Jaynes, Kansas' quarterback and the No. 1 pick by Memphis of the WFL, finally went midway in the NFL's third round, selected by the Kansas City Chiefs.

On and on it went ... but not without a few interesting moments.

In the first round, for example, Detroit traded its pick — No. 13 overall — and center Dave Thompson to New Orleans for the Saints' first-round choice — No. 8 in the order.

The Lions used No. 8 to grab O'Neil. But when No. 13 — apparently belonging to New Orleans — came around, the Lions hollered foul. The trade had involved only Thompson, not their draft pick, they said.

Rozelle ruled in favor of the Saints, who took Ohio State linebacker Rick Middleton. And Rozelle said the whole thing would be open to post-draft review.

There was an in-draft review, too, when Washington, which has a thing about unloading draft choices, tossed three of them to San Diego in return for veteran guard Walt Sweeney.

The review was by the NFL brass — which very carefully checked its books to make sure Washington Coach George Allen actually owned the choices he was unloading.

But the highlight — for just about everybody in the big room, anyway — came at the end of round No. 5 when Miami took 4 1/2 minutes to choose line-backer Cleveland Vann of Oklahoma State. If the Dolphins had used 1 1/2 minutes it would've been 8:59 p.m. and a sixth round — another hour or so — would have started. Instead, scout Doug Minter, on the phone in Miami, purposely dawdled for a few precious minutes, it became 9:02 p.m. and everybody breathed a sigh of relief and prepared to go home.

UP AND IN—Jeff Anderson hits on a driving layup to put two more points on the board for the Teays Valley Vikings against Bexley Tuesday night. Anderson came off the bench to tally 20 points during the evening. The Vikings ran their season record to 14-0.

Zane Trace Upends New Boston, 67-58

Zane Trace ran its season mark to 10-2 with a 67-58 win over visiting New Boston Tuesday night.

It was a tight ball game for the first two periods but the Pioneers jumped out in front early in the third quarter and stayed there the rest of the way.

Zane Trace trailed 13-11 at the end of the first canto, led 29-24 at the half and held a 45-38 margin at the third period buzzer.

New Boston took a 33-31 lead early in the third frame but the Pioneers quickly regained the lead. The closest New Boston came after that was 48-44 in the final quarter.

Jeff Wright came up with a hot hand for Zane Trace as he hit 11 of 14 shots from the floor for a total of 22 points. Mike Miller added 15 markers, Barry DeLong tallied 13, Charles Thurston had 11, Tim Whitten four and Pete Prewett two.

Jim Conley led New Boston with 21 points, Chuck Yeley had 11, John Conley nine, Jeff Patrick eight, Rance Cooper seven and Bill Paxton tallied two.

Rebounds were about even with New Boston getting 28 and Zane Trace 27. Whitten led the Pioneers while Jim Conley paced New Boston.

Trace hit 27 of 59 shots from the floor for 45 per cent and converted 18 of 17 from the free throw line.

New Boston was 25 of 52 from the field and eight of 19 from the charity stripe.

Zane Trace will be at Piketon Friday night and on the road at Unioto Saturday night.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Don't worry if detoured from your objective. If the original course was well planned and organized, you can get back on it later — with fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Examination and really thoughtful perusal of all situations will give you the answers you are seeking. So go ahead in your usual competent manner. DON'T waver.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Even though you're happy about some situations, don't, in a spirit of optimism, leave the door wide open for errors or setbacks. Keep alert.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If a "good" idea backfired, don't be discouraged. Look into the possible reasons — and make a new start. No good idea or effort is ever a total loss.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Rough sledding indicated in some areas, but don't worry. You have the talent, the will power and the determination to overcome all obstacles.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Be alert to a present tendency toward inertia, lackadaisical action. Curb through self-discipline. Current matters need further study. Some trends changing.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Gains for conscientious endeavors promised soon. As with many, you may not feel as lively or enthusiastic as usual, but steady, sure-footed moves will pay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): While some matters will go well, others may bog down because of unforeseen obstacles. Don't fret. Things will "even out" in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Planetary influences now give slow-moving projects new momentum, indicate better results than even you may have anticipated. Get going!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Planning to launch a new method or plan? Consult with others regarding the feasibility of either. A long range viewpoint necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good Uranus influences now stimulate your inspiration, ideas for a new strategy with which to attain objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Personal matters may need revising. Look for better answers. A state of readiness needed to cope with the unexpected.

YOU BORN TODAY are an affectionate person, but are often not demonstrative. You do your best in a bright, progressive climate; are endowed with fine business acumen and artistic appreciation. But you may hesitate too long to take a chance, so lose an opportunity. Many entertainers, architects, journalists and painters have been Aquarius-born. Toronto Loses To Jersey, 6-1

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP) — There was a moral victory as well as a technical victory for the Jersey Knights Tuesday night. The club's 6-1 triumph over the Toronto Toros marked the club's departure from the World Hockey Association's East Division cellar for the first time in weeks.

"If the guys continue like this, we'll make the playoffs," beamed Player-coach Harry Howell. "It was good to see them play so aggressively."

West Stars Top East In NHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Garry Unger had three employers Tuesday night and he did a little good for all of them.

The immediate beneficiary of Unger's work were the National Hockey League's West AllStars, whom he led to a 6-4 comeback victory over the East in the NHL's annual All-Star game.

The less direct beneficiaries were the St. Louis Blues and the Dodge Motor Co., for whom Unger works the other 364 days of the year.

Fleet Tudor Wins At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Fleet Tudor romped to a 15-length victory in the featured race at Latonia Tuesday night.

The winner went the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 1-5 to return $5.40, $4.00 and $3.60. Funnel paid $6.60 and $5.60 for second. The show horse was Everybody's Talkin at $6.60.

Speedy Clare and Misanthrope, 1-5, returned $39.20. A crowd of 4,333 wagered $451,782.

Swedish automobiles are now manufactured in Nova Scotia for the Canadian market.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — A 90-minute, 45-year-old goodie called "June Moon" is airing tonight on public television as the second weekly in-stallment of the new 18-part "Theater in America" series.

Now that we've got the numerical data out of the way, leave us suggest you catch tonight's proceedings, particularly if you're a fan of George S. Kaufman, Ring Lardner, or both.

They wrote the show, a Broadway comedy hit back in 1929, and its corner-of-the-mouth observations on true love, true deceit and all else that occurs in Tin Pan Alley hold up fairly well even today.

"June Moon" is a classic tale of the tunesmith business. It concerns a young rube who's left his job with General Electric in Schenectady, N.Y., and come to the Big Apple in search of fame and fortune as a lyricist.

Said rube, played by Tom Fitzsimmons, is to be the new songwriting partner of Paul Sears, a famous man in danger of losing his situation with a major song publishing house because he hasn't had a hit in three years.

Sears, nicely etched by Jack Cassidy, is a man besieged not only by a fading bank account, but also by his shrewish wife (Estelle Parsons) and her gold-digging sister (Susan Sarandon).

The rube meets a nice young lady (Barbara Dana) on the train from Schenectady and confides his dream to her. They soon get a thing going in Manhattan. Alas, the thing is quickly interrupted.

True love is put in limbo as the rube and his savings are whisked about town by the gold-digger, described by our hero as a "regular New York girlie."

The effort to write the Big Hit eventually gets underway, punctuated by sardonic comments from Maxie Schwartz, the staff cynic and pianist for the publishing house.

Schwartz is portrayed by Broadway composer-lyricist Stephen Sondheim, who is making his adult acting debut in "June Moon."

But no matter. It's all for a good cause in this well-paced WNET production. About the only fault one might find with it is that Fitzsimmons plays the rube a shade too broadly.

You'll get a kick out of it, and if you don't, well, maybe you should be reading Henry James anyway.

Incidentally, the show starts in the East at 8:30 p.m., but there'll be no problem for Eastern viewers who also want to see President Nixon's State of the Union address to Congress tonight.

Nixon's scheduled 9 p.m. address, to be carried live on radio and TV by all three networks, will be videotaped in full and fed to public TV stations at 10 p.m. EDT, according to the Public Broadcasting Service.

Your Horoscope Television Schedule

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Don't worry if detoured from your objective. If the original course was well planned and organized, you can get back on it later — with fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Examination and really thoughtful perusal of all situations will give you the answers you are seeking. So go ahead in your usual competent manner. DON'T waver.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Even though you're happy about some situations, don't, in a spirit of optimism, leave the door wide open for errors or setbacks. Keep alert.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If a "good" idea backfired, don't be discouraged. Look into the possible reasons — and make a new start. No good idea or effort is ever a total loss.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Rough sledding indicated in some areas, but don't worry. You have the talent, the will and the determination to overcome all obstacles.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Be alert to a present tendency toward inertia, lackadaisical action. Curb through self-discipline. Current matters need further study. Some trends changing.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Gains for conscientious endeavors promised soon. As with many, you may not feel as lively or enthusiastic as usual, but steady, sure-footed moves will pay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): While some matters will go well, others may bog down because of unforeseen obstacles. Don't fret. Things will "even out" in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Planetary influences now give slow-moving projects new momentum, indicate better results than even you may have anticipated. Get going!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Planning to launch a new method or plan? Consult with others regarding the feasibility of either. A long range viewpoint necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good Uranus influences now stimulate your inspiration, ideas for a new strategy with which to attain objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Personal matters may need revising. Look for better answers. A state of readiness needed to cope with the unexpected.

YOU BORN TODAY are an affectionate person, but are often not demonstrative. You do your best in a bright, progressive climate; are endowed with fine business acumen and artistic appreciation. But you may hesitate too long to take a chance, so lose an opportunity. Many entertainers, architects, journalists and painters have been Aquarius-born. Birthdate of: Tallulah Bankhead, Carol Channing and Eddie Cantor, American stage stars.

Toronto Loses To Jersey, 6-1

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP) — There was a moral victory as well as a technical victory for the Jersey Knights Tuesday night. The club's 6-1 triumph over the Toronto Toros marked the club's departure from the World Hockey Association's East Division cellar for the first time in weeks.

"If the guys continue like this, we'll make the playoffs," beamed Player-coach Harry Howell. "It was good to see them play so aggressively."

West Stars Top East In NHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Garry Unger had three employers Tuesday night and he did a little good for all of them.

The immediate beneficiary of Unger's work were the National Hockey League's West AllStars, whom he led to a 6-4 comeback victory over the East in the NHL's annual All-Star game.

The less direct beneficiaries were the St. Louis Blues and the Dodge Motor Co., for whom Unger works the other 364 days of the year.

Fleet Tudor Wins At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Fleet Tudor romped to a 15-length victory in the featured race at Latonia Tuesday night.

The winner went the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 1-5 to return $5.40, $4.00 and $3.60. Funnel paid $6.60 and $5.60 for second. The show horse was Everybody's Talkin at $6.60. Speedy Clare and Misanthrope, 1-5, returned $39.20. A crowd of 4,333 wagered $451,782.

Swedish automobiles are now manufactured in Nova Scotia for the Canadian market.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Bill Pettit who passed away one year ago today.
Missed by all.
Mother, sisters, brothers.

1. Card of Thanks

My family and myself would like to thank our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us since my accident, Dec. 28. Special thanks to Ross Pickaway Fire Department, Drs. J.M. and Charles Hedges, Rev. Pearl Castro, Rev. Pat Dreyer and Rev. Layton and to the staff at Berger Hospital. Thanks for the many cards and flowers.

Sincerely,
Gene, Joanne Becky, Dan and Michael Patrick.

My sincere thanks go to friends and relatives for the many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, flowers, and memorial donations following the death of my beloved husband.
Mrs. Orland DeLong & Family

I wish to thank Drs. Hedges and staff of Berger Hospital and all that sent me cards and flowers during my stay in Berger Hospital.
Mary Ann Crabill

Earlier high draft choices of the fledgling World Football League, both went in the first round of the established National Football League selections Tuesday in New York.

"The NFL always has been the big thing. But if the WHL offers three times as much, I would go there," said Middleton after learning he was the New Orleans' opening round selection.

The Detroit franchise made him the 13th WHL selection earlier this month. He was the first pick of the WHL's second round.

"If the other league (WHL) offers the right money, I sure would think about it," said Gradishar, selected right behind Middleton by the Denver Broncos in the first NFL round. He was picked in the third round by Boston of the WHL.

"Coach (Babe) Parilli of Boston called me today and asked me to talk to them before I make up my mind," said Gradishar, a 6-foot-3, 232-pound outside linebacker from Champion.

Gradishar said he would go to Denver Feb. 8-10 to discuss his prospects with the NFL team. "I'm very thankful Denver had faith in me as far as concerns about my knee," he said.

Several pro teams bypassed Gradishar because of his 1972 knee problems. He underwent surgery after the 1973 Rose Bowl setback to Southern California and did not miss a game last fall.

Middleton, a 6-3, 225-pounder from Delaware, wasn't surprised he was picked over his more heralded linebacking teammate, a two-time All-American.

"Scouts and agents told me I would go high. They rated me the third or fourth best linebacker available," Middleton said. He planned to fly to New Orleans today to meet with Saints' officials. Ohio State All-American Green.

tackle John Hicks, the third player picked by the NFL Tuesday, signed immediately with the New York Giants, ending any speculation of a bidding war for the 6-3, 258-pound offensive tackle from Cleveland.

Hicks said he was contacted by the Florida franchise of the WFL, but the new team "didn't talk money. I've always wanted to play in the NFL. I don't care whether they play me at tackle or guard. I just want to play."

Hicks said his multi-year contract had good fringe benefits, but refused to reveal specific terms.

Two other Ohioans went in the first round. Dave Gallagher, a Michigan defensive tackle from Piqua, went to the Chicago Bears and Bill Kollar, another defensive tackle from Montana State, was taken by the Cincinnati Bengals. Kollar is from Warren.

Kent State's wide receiver Gerald Tinker and linebacker Jack Lambert were selected in the second round.

The Atlanta Falcons took Tinker, a member of the United States' gold medal winning 400 meter relay team in the 1972 Olympics. Tinker is from Miami, Fla.

Lambert, a 6-foot-5, 215-pound middle linebacker who was the 1972 Mid-American Conference Player of the Year, was chosen by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Also taken in round two, by the Baltimore Colts, was Michigan fullback Ed Shuttlesworth, a Cincinnati native.

The only other Ohio player selected in the third round was Evan Jolitz, a Cincinnati linebacker. He went to the Cincinnati Bengals.

In the fourth round, the Oakland Raiders took Ohio State running back Morris Bradshaw and the Baltimore Colts picked Tony Bell, a defensive back at Bowling Green.

Caribbean Cruising

By JIM BISHOP

ABOARD M V ANGELINA LAURO—She's a big girl—24,000 tons—and she slips through the pale lime of the Caribbean at 21 knots, day and night. This is the winter tourist season and the great swans of the sea carry scores of thousands of Americans to the warm sun, starry nights and torrid romance.

My wife and I have done this many times. Some voyages were memorable; some were depressingly difficult to forget. This is a solid ship, one which shoulders feathery seas with stoic dignity.

Years ago, she was the Oranje, built by the Dutch for the Rotterdam to Java run. She is the only big liner I have seen with a "bell hull": that is, it slants inward toward the promenade deck.

The crew is Italian; so, surprisingly, are many of the passengers. To get what you want, you point. There are three swimming pools, two movies, and several hundred red-hot lovers in white coats with gold crosses hanging on their chests.

At the ship's dances after dinner, it is easy to spot the single-ohs. The girls sit alone, twirling a daiquiri slowly on a table, watching the middle-aged paunches cha-cha as the orchestra plays "Siboney." The men lean against walls, well-dressed and sleek, prowling a jungle of sex with their eyes.

The Angelina Lauro stopped briefly at Nassau. There are 700 Bahama Islands, and the people are newly independent. Emerging nations have one thing in common: arrogance. I found it easier to win $100 at the Paradise Casino than to win a smile from a Bahamian.

We cleared the harbor in a fiery sunset and dressed for dinner. The sea was spanking smart on the bows and a full moon built a silvery road to the ship. The Italian chef sent corned beef and cabbage. The cabbage turned out to be sauerkraut and the corned beef, I think, was fried in olive oil. It's like being mugged by a buddy.

We have three dear friends aboard: Dr. Lester Keiser, author-psychiatrist, and Hank and Helen Waldman. We share a table for five. Mrs. Waldman is an attractive blonde with a titanic—excuse the expression—appetite. Hank is a super-salesman who can peddle mezuzahs to Arabs. For a reason which escapes me, he selected this ship, this voyage, to go on a diet.

Most chefs will saute a rock. We eat, not well, but rich. The next stop was San Juan. We hired a driver for the day for $45 and went to the tourist attraction, the old fort at the harbor mouth. Kelly refused to get out of the car. "When you've seen one fort," she said . . .

We drove to Dorado Beach to protect Nelson Rockefeller's money, and I am here to tell him that the beach is exactly where he left it. The big treat, for me, was visiting El San Juan, one of the most beautiful hotels in the world. I would be happy to live in the sumptuous lobby.

After a great dinner—a la Americaine—we hit the gambling casino. With gusto, it hit us back. The hundred from Bahama now repose in Puerto Rico. Dr. Keiser tossed the dice and I bet on him. I've seen drunks rolled with more finesse than he can roll dice.

A ship overrides small sorrows. At 2 a.m., the Angelina Lauro backed out of the slip and threaded the winking buoys for the open sea. We awakened at St. Thomas at dockside. There is nothing virginal about the Virgin Islands.

St. Thomas is a small verdant horseshoe with a jade bay. bobbing sailboats and small, sawtooth mountains. It has one main street and all merchandise is duty-free. Six ships were in and the tourists clawed each other to buy 8-track stereos, cameras, booze and sportswear.

I am congenitally opposed to shopping. One-way money changed hands—from me to my wife—never to be seen again. I sat on the edge of the bay at Sebastian's restaurant watching the small boats and the tired tourists in floppy straw hats and shorts. Americans have skinny legs and big bellies.

At dusk, Jupiter and Venus turned their blue beams on the orange sky and our ship backed slowly out, churning cocoa mud from the bottom of the harbor.

I have been addicted to sea travel from the age of nine. Then, as I sat in class at St. Patrick's School in Jersey City, I could glance out the window and see the back of the Statue of Liberty and all the big ocean liners.

I never learned to parse a sentence properly, but I vowed that someday I would sail warm tranquil seas. Here I am, and here is this nice steady ship. It's as romantic as the brush of warm lips. And, in time, just as costly.

Tonight we head south to Martinique. Close your eyes and come along . . .

Claim President Must Provide Data To Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee says President Nixon can't invoke executive privilege to withhold Ammer Denies Application For Probation

An application for shock probation was recently denied in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court by Judge William Ammer. Walter Eugene Wood had made application to have the remainder of his sentence suspended on the shock probation statute which allows first offenders to be released from their sentence after spending at least 30 days in prison. The statute is intended to aid those who are not habitual offenders in that they will be so shocked by the prison life that they will not likely again break the law.

Ammer denied the application in view of Wood's previous history and the character of the crime of which he had been convicted and sentenced. Wood had been found guilty of forgery and was sentenced on Dec. 19 to 1-20 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary.

Parkway Promoted By Panel

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — The Garden State Parkway is trying to promote the energy saving virtues of its asphalt straightaway like a company selling toothpaste.

But instead of 23 per cent fewer cavities, the Parkway offers 4.5 fewer gallons of gasoline used.

The Parkway runs the length of the state from the New York line to Cape May opposite Delaware without stoplights and intersections to slow up traffic. It is encouraging people who have to ride to use its road instead of toll-free, but often slower, local roads.

John P. Gallagher, executive director of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Parkway, said commuters are being told they can save gas and time driving the road.

"Most of our commuters drive suburb to suburb, not suburb to city," Gallagher said. "They have to drive. With the gasoline crunch driving our revenues down, we want them to ride us."

The Parkway has been hurt by the gasoline shortage, with stations able to sell only $1, $2 and $3 worth at a time. The stations are closed on Sundays. The Parkway says that toll roads in other states are not nearly so gasoline-short and a few have stations open on Sundays.

Toll revenues were down 6.8 per cent in December. That translates to $3.5 million. In its new budget the Parkway assumes an 8 per cent dip in tolls in the year ahead. Other toll roads in the country have reported similar revenue losses.

Rhodes Opens Fire On Gilligan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A cocky, confident James A. Rhodes told newsmen Tuesday his campaign for governor is against Gov. John Gilligan, not fellow Republicans.

Rhodes, a two-term holder of the office, said he would not comment on reports by some Republicans that he would be a hindrance at the head of the ticket.

"Let them run and find out," he said. The present administration, he said, has been doing everything it can to tear down the accomplishments of his own regime.

"I have no objections to these statehouse plumbers investigating me," he said. Later, he referred to the same faction as "the greatest group of plumbers to ever operate in Ohio."

Asked to name to whom he referred, Rhodes said he would do so later in the campaign.

Facing a group of some 30 newsmen in his first Columbus news conference since filing for governor, Rhodes said he had never been able to satisfy everybody in his own party and wasn't going to try.

"I think this is a democracy," he said of his possible primary opposition. "If those people want to run, they should get on the ballot."

The latest polls, Rhodes said, show him getting 62 per cent of any primary vote.

"I'm going to follow the 11th commandment," he added. "I have not said unkind words about fellow Republicans and I'm not going to."

"I don't believe the people of Ohio," he added, "care what I think of other Republicans and what they think about me."

Any attempt by Commerce Director Dennis Shaul to revoke his real estate broker's license, Rhodes said, will be challenged in court.

He said hearings by the Ohio Real Estate Commission into how he got his license—which has been re-issued each year since 1970—are illegal because law doesn't provide a hearing officer for the commission.

The campaign he emphasized, will be directed against Gilligan and his administration and not other people who may be on the Democratic ticket, including Shaul.

"I think I understand state affairs, know the issues and how to develop programs for this state," Rhodes said. Rhodes said Ohio for seven of his eight years as governor led the nation in industrial development but now ranks 15th.

"This will be an issue," he said. As usual, he made his familiar "jobs and progress" speech, emphasizing the need for a youth to "come out of school with a diploma in one hand and a job in the other."

Rhodes' comments on other issues: Welfare — "If they (41 to 51 per cent) are on there illegally, Gov. Gilligan must bear the responsibility."

The Lucasville prison — "We followed the federal concept. They put the federal prison in the middle of Kansas. I don't hear anybody saying, 'Let's put Leavenworth in Cuyahoga County'. The only thing wrong down there is mismanagement."

Income tax — "The concept is all right, but the people have not given them a blank check to spend all the money coming in and more."

Daylight Saving Time — "I'm against it, because of the safety of six, seven and eight-year-old children going to school in the dark."

New State Departments — "In Gov. Gilligan's quest for power he has to create big government. They employ more people who do less."

Kent State — "All I did was do what the state constitution and statutes provide." The mayor and sheriff, he said, told him they couldn't control the situation and he called in the National Guard.

Rhodes' comments on other issues: Welfare — "If they (41 to 51 per cent)

PICCA Grant Announced

Pickaway County Community Action Council has been awarded a $23,274 grant for the three-month period from Feb. 1 through April 30.

Of the money granted, $4,654 will be used for administration costs and $18,620 for general community programming according to Nancy Morgan, local administrator.

The grant was announced this week by Congressman William H. Harsha. Governor John J. Gilligan has announced approval of an application for a $93,100 grant for community action for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1974.

Mrs. Morgan said the governor's approval does not necessarily mean the local organization will receive the funds. She noted that federal funding recently has been only on a quarterly basis with no assurance. Office of Economic Opportunity programs will be continued.

The federal money, if granted, will be supplemented locally with $23,275 in kind services.

Darling Bound To Grand Jury

William Darling Jr., Columbus, was bound to grand jury, Monday, by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb. Bond was set at $5,000 with Darling permitted to sign a $4,000 recognizance bond and paying 10 per cent of the remaining $1,000.

Darling is charged with uttering and publishing a forged check for $350.

LE, Westfall Adult Farmers Meeting Set

The Logan Elm and Westfall Adult Farmers will hold a joint meeting 8 p.m. Monday in McDowell Exchange School, Logan Elm District.

Charles Boyles, manager of the Eastern Ohio Experiment Station, will speak on different haymaking systems available for year around pasturing of beef herds.

Boyles, a pioneer in year around pasturing of beef herds in Ohio, will show slides and present facts and figures on different haymaking systems.

An admission fee will be charged for this program. Agriculture instructors at Westfall, Paul Ewing, and at Logan Elm, Ron Hoffman, are hoping for a big turnout for this joint meeting.

Dountz Visits County Schools

Pickaway County Sheriff's Community Relations Bureau Deputy Bill Dountz visited the Jackson Township school 9 a.m. Monday distributing safety pamphlets to students in the first, second and third grades.

Ohio History Quiz pamphlets were given to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. A total of 365 students were given literature at the school.

Deputy Dountz also visited the Pickaway Township School, 9 a.m. Tuesday, distributing the safety pamphlets and Ohio History quiz pamphlets to 284 students in grades one through six.

Eight Saltcreek Township first through sixth grade classes were presented the safety pamphlets and Ohio History Quiz pamphlets 12:15 p.m. Tuesday by Deputy Dountz.

The literature was distributed to 270 students.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee says President Nixon can't invoke executive privilege to withhold Ammer Denies Application For Probation

An application for shock probation was recently denied in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court by Judge William Ammer. Walter Eugene Wood had made application to have the remainder of his sentence suspended on the shock probation statute which allows first offenders to be released from their sentence after spending at least 30 days in prison. The statute is intended to aid those who are not habitual offenders in that they will be so shocked by the prison life that they will not likely again break the law.

State Farmer Uses Computer

EDISON, Ohio (AP) — Dairy farmer Clarence Gruber runs his farm by computer.

Each year he asks the computer at Ohio State University for advice.

"It's a handy tool that has helped us from getting into trouble," Gruber said.

Gruber faced trouble early when his barn burned to the ground one year after he bought his Morrow County farm. A short time later he discovered the computer, which provided an escape from serious financial problems.

He paid Ohio State $15 to run his figures for personal income, expenses, production information, labor costs, livestock and grain supplies through the computer.

Herb Crown, an agricultural extension agent in Mount Gilead said the resulting analysis pinpointed Gruber's problems.

He had a good profit and loss statement, except he was getting into cash flow problems," said Crown. "He was not able to keep up payments for his feed and fertilizer."

"This came upon a high debt to rebuild the barn. He had to make the payments and that caused him to be slow in realizing profit."

"What we did was look at his records to help him through the situation. We computed what additional cows would do for his income."

Gruber purchased 27 more cows and increased his herd to more than 100.

Crown said, "The increased income from the new cows helped Gruber within eight to nine months catch up on his feed bills and his debt to the lending institution."

He added, "The biggest benefit from the computer analysis is when it comes time to make a decision. You got the background information and you're not guessing in the dark."

"You can project pretty easily what the effect will be to add cows to the herd and determine the profit picture."

Gruber said the analysis has also showed him how and when to increase his feed production for his herd.

Gruber, whose farm has undergone analysis for five years, said, "You don't get much for $5 or $10 anymore. But the analysis is well worth $15. Any other place would say it is worth $100."

Richard Duvick, farm management extension specialist at Ohio State, said his office did 550 farm analyses last year.

"We're just beginning to get records for this year," he said. "The analysis request usually comes at the same time a farmer files his income tax, which has all the necessary figures."

Duvick said the analysis takes 10 days to complete and return to the farmer.

U.S.Trade Boost Brings More Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — If government estimates are correct, an increase in U.S. trade last year created 1.5 million jobs.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that the United States had a surplus in its foreign trade in 1973 of $1.7 billion, the first trade surplus in three years.

Exports totaled $70.8 billion, a 44 per cent increase over 1972. The Commerce Department said nearly half this gain was in agricultural exports.

Imports totaled $69 billion, a 24 per cent increase over 1972, and the cost of petroleum imports were up by $3.4 billion over the previous year.

The government estimates that each $1 billion in U.S. export trade leads to 72,000 new jobs, which would mean an increase in employment last year by 1.5 million.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant secretary of Commerce for economic affairs, said the biggest factors in the improved U.S. trade position were the two devaluations of the dollar. These made U.S. goods cheaper overseas and foreign goods more expensive in this country.

Jones said the trade surplus of $1.7 billion was about double what the government had expected. The United States had deficits of $6.4 billion in 1972 and $2 billion in 1971.

But Jones said the U.S. trade surplus may be short-lived. He said the higher cost of world oil probably would offset other U.S. trade gains and lead to renewed deficits in 1974.

In addition to reporting the 1973 trade surplus, the Commerce Department also said Monday that the United States had a record monthly trade surplus of $942 million in December.

Dying Man Sent To Workhouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ironworker James R. Laver, 38, wants to serve his 90 days at the Columbus Workhouse, then begin anew.

"The judge sentenced me, so I would like to do my time," said Laver. "After that I would like to return to a normal life."

But Laver will never resume a normal life. For about four years, he has been suffering from Huntington's chorea, a hereditary disease that causes jerky face and limb movements, mental deterioration and death.

Court officials admit that Laver was sent to the workhouse for lack of a better place. They hope his stay will be temporary.

"We can't put him on the street," said William Mifsud, his probation officer. "We don't want him in jail, but we want him safeguarded and protected from himself and other people. He has been robbed three or four times."

Laver is unsteady on his feet, "jerks his head, jerks all his body," said Mifsud.

The probation officer said, "He gets extremely good care at the workhouse. That's why he wants to go there."

But Mifsud said, "I don't see how in 1974 a person has to be safeguarded for his welfare by being put in a workhouse. We are capable of doing marvelous things, so why can't we let him have a humanitarian death?"

Doctors at Columbus State Hospital for the mentally ill examined Laver twice and rejected him as a patient both times. Hospital reports said he is not mentally ill.

"I think the state hospital is very derelict," said Municipal Court Judge G. W. Fais, who sentenced Laver to the 90 days for malicious destruction of property. He was accused of discharging a revolver into the wall of a house.

He was brought to the court last week for sentencing after serving 90 days on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Fais has ordered a new physical examination for Laver. "When that report is received, hopefully we can get him hospitalized," he said.

Laver has a bed in the workhouse infirmary and has the daily attention of a nurse. "I'm fine," he said. "I'm being taken care of."

Laver, who refuses to stay in a nursing home, said, "I would like to live alone in Columbus." His family has been separated. He receives $240 a

Gilligan Confident On Rights Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. John Gilligan appeared confident the Ohio Senate will ratify the Equal Rights Amendment when he addressed the Ohio AFL-CIO Civil Rights Conference here Monday.

"When the Ohio Senate ratifies the Equal Rights Amendment, we will be one state closer to making sexual equality a specific right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States," the governor said.

month in Social Security disability payments.

Fais said, "He's going down hill, both mentally and physically. He is not going to improve."

Mifsud added, "We don't know what to do with a man who is dying and wants to appreciate the last years of freedom."

Oil Profits Skyrocket

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the nation's sixth largest, said Monday its earnings rose from $374.7 million in 1972 to $511 million last year, or a 35 per cent jump. Fourth quarter profits rose 53 per cent.

Two smaller firms — Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., and Skelly Oil Co. of Tulsa — also reported increased profits.

Skelly said its 1973 net profits were $44 million, 17 per cent above the 1972 total. Total sales and other income was reported at $636 million up 8.4 per cent over the year before.

Murphy Oil reported profits rose 275 per cent to $53.59 million in 1973 compared with $14.28 million in 1972. Fourth quarter earnings were four times as great as the previous year, rising to $18.99 million.

Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio), the 16th largest in the nation, said earlier its earnings rose 23 per cent in 1973 over the previous year.

Earlier this month, Exxon Corp. said it made a 59 per cent increase in profits last year; Mobil Oil Co. reported 47 per cent; and Texaco 45 per cent.

Tropical Medicine Center Planned

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Case Western Reserve University Monday announced it received a $550,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to establish a tropical medicine research center.

The money allows the school to hire additional personnel and to do work in South America, Asia and East Africa.

Dying Man Sent To Workhouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ironworker James R. Laver, 38, wants to serve his 90 days at the Columbus Workhouse, then begin anew.

"The judge sentenced me, so I would like to do my time," said Laver. "After that I would like to return to a normal life."

But Laver will never resume a normal life. For about four years, he has been suffering from Huntington's chorea, a hereditary disease that causes jerky face and limb movements, mental deterioration and death.

Court officials admit that Laver was sent to the workhouse for lack of a better place. They hope his stay will be temporary.

"We can't put him on the street," said William Mifsud, his probation officer. "We don't want him in jail, but we want him safeguarded and protected from himself and other people. He has been robbed three or four times."

Laver is unsteady on his feet, "jerks his head, jerks all his body," said Mifsud.

The probation officer said, "He gets extremely good care at the workhouse. That's why he wants to go there."

But Mifsud said, "I don't see how in 1974 a person has to be safeguarded for his welfare by being put in a workhouse. We are capable of doing marvelous things, so why can't we let him have a humanitarian death?"

Doctors at Columbus State Hospital for the mentally ill examined Laver twice and rejected him as a patient both times. Hospital reports said he is not mentally ill.

"I think the state hospital is very derelect," said Municipal Court Judge G. W. Fais, who sentenced Laver to the 90 days for malicious destruction of property. He was accused of discharging a revolver into the wall of a house.

He was brought to the court last week for sentencing after serving 90 days on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Fais has ordered a new physical examination for Laver. "When that report is received, hopefully we can get him hospitalized," he said.

Laver has a bed in the workhouse infirmary and has the daily attention of a nurse. "I'm fine," he said. "I'm being taken care of."

Laver, who refuses to stay in a nursing home, said, "I would like to live alone in Columbus." His family has been separated. He receives $240 a

Gilligan Confident On Rights Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. John Gilligan appeared confident the Ohio Senate will ratify the Equal Rights Amendment when he addressed the Ohio AFL-CIO Civil Rights Conference here Monday.

"When the Ohio Senate ratifies the Equal Rights Amendment, we will be one state closer to making sexual equality a specific right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States," the governor said.

month in Social Security disability payments.

Fais said, "He's going down hill, both mentally and physically. He is not going to improve."

Mifsud added, "We don't know what to do with a man who is dying and wants to appreciate the last years of freedom."

The Circleville Herald, Wednesday January 30, 1974 Oil Profits Skyrocket

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the nation's sixth largest, said Monday its earnings rose from $374.7 million in 1972 to $511 million last year, or a 35 per cent jump. Fourth quarter profits rose 53 per cent.

Two smaller firms — Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., and Skelly Oil Co. of Tulsa — also reported increased profits.

Skelly said its 1973 net profits were $44 million, 17 per cent above the 1972 total. Total sales and other income was reported at $636 million up 8.4 per cent over the year before.

Murphy Oil reported profits rose 275 per cent to $53.59 million in 1973 compared with $14.28 million in 1972. Fourth quarter earnings were four times as great as the previous year, rising to $18.99 million.

Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio), the 16th largest in the nation, said earlier its earnings rose 23 per cent in 1973 over the previous year.

Earlier this month, Exxon Corp. said it made a 59 per cent increase in profits last year; Mobil Oil Co. reported 47 per cent; and Texaco 45 per cent.

Tropical Medicine Center Planned

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Case Western Reserve University Monday announced it received a $550,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to establish a tropical medicine research center.

Ray Wins Review Of Guilty Plea

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — James Earl Ray, 41, confessed slayer of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., won a review of his guilty plea Tuesday from the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appellate court, in a split 2-1 decision remanded Ray's petition for a review to the U.S. District Court at Nashville.

The appeals court accepted Ray's contention that he was given improper legal advice in his 1969 guilty plea. It cited two letters written to Ray by attorney Percy Foreman.

The letters revealed arrangements for Foreman to receive $165,000 from royalties on publications and movies based on Ray's case. Also, the letters indicated Ray's share of the money would be delivered only upon his plea of guilty with "no embarrassing circumstances to take place in the court room . . ."

The majority opinion was written by Judge William E. Miller, with Judge Harry Phillips concurring. Judge Anthony J. Celebrezze wrote a dissenting opinion.

Ray is serving a 99-year sentence in the Tennessee State Penitentiary for the April 4, 1968 slaying of King.

The civil rights leader was shot to death as he stood on a Memphis, Tenn., motel balcony. King was in Memphis to support a strike by garbage collectors who belonged to the Teamsters Union.

Ray later was extradited from London where he was arrested.

Ray's appeal alleged he was poorly advised by attorney Arthur Hanes and later Foreman. He alleged that both were more interested in funds to be derived from articles and books planned by Alabama author William Bradford Huie than his defense. And, Ray further alleged, his own guilty plea was paramount to the financial success of the publications and a possible movie based on his case.

"... it is clear," the appellate court said, noting that the original trial judge had thoroughly questioned Ray about his guilty plea, "that the allegations which are the subject or Ray's petition have never been tried upon their merits or resolved by any court—allegations which, if true, plainly negative any motion or idea that his guilty plea and his answers to Judge Battle were made voluntarily and intelligently."

"... but no inquiry was made into the specific contentions that are now before this court. The questions asked

Man Faces Charges In Bahamas Murders

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Michaia Shobek, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., was charged Monday with the murders of three American tourists, including a Massillon, Ohio, attorney.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 18.

Shobek was charged with first-degree murder in the deaths of Paul V. Howell, 50, of Massillon, and Katie Smith, 17, of Detroit, both last Dec. 5, and Irvin Bernstein, 44, of Ocean City, N.J., Jan. 18.

by Judge Battle, although very thorough, were directed to the voluntariness of Ray's guilty plea . . ."

"Only by such a hearing may it be determined whether the plea was intelligent or voluntary or entered as the result of coercion, threats and promises," the court said.

Suit Studied By Judges

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has agreed to consider an appeal Erie Lackawanna Railroad employees challenging suspension of a special wage plan.

The suspension was appealed by the Railway Labor Executives' Railway Unions.

The suspension was ordered last March by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Krupansky, whose court is in charge of the railroad's reorganization under the National Bankruptcy Act.

The special wage plan assures employees minimum monthly wages whether or not they had work. The plan was included in a collective bargaining agreement when the Erie Lackawanna merged with the Norfolk and Western Railroad to assure protection of union employees.

The railroad argued that the plan had damaged Erie Lackawanna's financial solvency. The railroad said it lost $23 million last year.

Union attorneys claimed Monday that the district court's suspension of the plan goes beyond its authority.

They claimed employees have been laid off, lost health and insurance benefits and been forced to give up homes and cars as a result of the action.

Pentagon Fights Rate Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has objected to proposed rate changes by American Telephone & Telegraph Co., claiming they would cost the federal government another $600,000 a year "without any additional benefits whatsoever."

The Defense Department asked to enter the case in a petition filed on behalf of all federal agencies.

Under the plan AT&T wants to drop uniform mileage charges on leased lines reserved by business for their exclusive use. This would be replaced by a two-tier system with lower rates between 370 major cities and higher rates for routes to other communities.

The changes are opposed by competing microwave transmission firms and by large news agencies, including The Associated Press. They contend they would be hurt unfairly by the changes.

Student Expulsion Plan Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, is trying to work out agreement on a controversial bill spelling out suspension and expulsion procedures for unruly Ohio students.

"It's not an easy thing to do," said Speck. "We've been meeting with the interested groups every week trying to work out areas of agreement. We hope to have a consensus bill by early February."

Speck and Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, are sponsoring the legislation, versions of which have been kicking around legislative halls for several years.

Recent court decisions in Ohio and other states have pointed up the need for a new law. One three-judge federal court struck down Ohio procedures used for one student on grounds due process was denied.

In that instance, Speck said, the school authorities who suspended the student "didn't give him a hearing until after the fact." Speck's bill in its present form would require that the student receive a hearing before disciplinary action is taken, he said.

Speck, 36-year-old Muskingum College instructor, said his bill has stirred controversy because of some provisions have been misunderstood and because some school officials do not realize that at its present stage "it is a vehicle."

"It is not written on a tablet of stone," Speck said.

One example, he said, is the language of the bill that provides for the student to have counsel at expulsion and dismissal hearings.

"In this case, we didn't intend for counsel to mean attorney. Adviser is what we actually mean," he said.

Speck said the Ohio Education

Association indicated it would oppose the bill.

"They wanted the teacher to have the right to take a student out of the classroom for three days on the teacher's order alone. I think we can work that out by allowing the teacher to remove a student for one day," he said.

Other arguments involve whether a student should be allowed to make up class work he missed during a suspension and whether a student might be given an in-house suspension so he might remain in the school building but be required to study alone.

School administrators told Speck on a Columbus television program they opposed letting a suspended student remain in the building. Part of the punishment, they said, is keeping him out of the building.

"These are some of the problems, but we're going to work them out," said Speck.

"WE CARE"

At Firestone we perform only the service work that is needed and authorized by you. When we return your car to you, your worn parts will be in the car, wrapped in a clean plastic bag and ready for your inspection. If you like, you may even take them with you. At Firestone, your driving safety and satisfaction are our primary concern.

Customers who take parts including a returnable core are charged the value of the core.
